BIG VICTORY BY BRITISH FORCES

SURPRISE ATTACK BREAKS FA- MOUS GERMAN LINE FOR THIRTY-TWO MILES.

At daylight on Wednesday morning the British soldiers in northern France rose up without the firing of a big gun and fought their way over the surprised German lines and right through the Hindenburg fortresses that were supposed to be impregnable. The attack was 32 miles long and advances were made for five miles or more and at last accounts were continuing at some points.

"Tanks," the large tractors which ride over and crush all obstructions such as barbed wire, posts, small trees, trenches, etc., played a large part in the immense victory. Eight thousand prisoners and many big guns were captured.

This is the first attack made without artillery preparation, which has come to be depended upon as a warning. Gen. Haig deceived them completely by not using the artillery. Also, by getting the tanks, supplies and men into the lines during several nights preceding the attack and keeping them concealed.

Lawrence County Red Cross

The Executive Committee, with a number of the members of the Sub-Committees, met at the new Red Cross headquarters in the F. H. Yates building on Tuesday evening. The committee on Woman's Work has fitted this room in fine shape for cutting and sewing and for committee meetings. Much material and several patterns have been ordered and numbers of the women will soon be very busy, both at the headquarters and at home. The women have the work well planned and interest in this practical side of the work is rapidly increasing. You are invited to visit the room and get in line. One shipment of knitted goods has been made and another will soon be ready.

Besides a certain amount of knitted work the women will concentrate on a definite number of kinds of hospital garments. They may be prepared soon to make some of the surgical dressings.

An auxiliary has been organized at Walbridge and calls from other places are coming in. The secretary has been empowered to look after these calls and organize as rapidly as possible. Lawrence county is getting interested and much good work will be accomplished. Every member is ready to help in every way possible.

The National Committee of the American Red Cross has called a general membership campaign for the purpose of increasing the membership to 1,000,000 by Christmas. Rev. W. A. Gaugh is elected campaign manager for the Lawrence County Chapter. We now have 256 members. What ought it to be by Christmas? 600 would only be one-fourth of our population.

Don't forget to get in touch with the work the women have planned. They will be glad to talk to you about the great need of supplies and tell you what you can help do.

The secretary reports that there are two points that at this time ought to be emphasized. First: The American Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. are NOT the same. Both are very important but work along different lines. Second: The Red Cross is asked to co-operate with local charity organizations but is not organized just for the purpose of doing what may be called the ordinary local charity work. It might be well for the citizens of Louisa to get this matter in shape so it could be worked through, or in co-operation with the local Red Cross Chapter.

One of the more important committees of the Red Cross work is the committee on Civilian Relief. W. D. O'Neal is chairman of this committee. Its importance will be more apparent in a few months as they, among many other things, must plan for the time when the soldiers begin to come back from the front. We can not expect all to come back sound and well. Broadly speaking, any service the government is not equipped to render will be the work of this committee.

Send in your questions or your calls for organization to chapter headquarters and everything will have prompt attention.

The Red Cross is under orders to serve.

Here is some information for the public to think over:

"We have heard that we are operating at a big overhead expense. This is false. For every dollar you give us we get about $1.02 of value. We work this by a fine system of interest with the banks."—Chairman Davison.

"We have decided to carry the theory of our knitting department into the work of the whole organization—this is 90 per cent common sense and 10 per cent instruction."—General Manager Gibson.

"Red Cross nurses unfortunately are not always pretty clad, as you might imagine from the magazine covers. In Serbia the Scotch nurses worked in pajamas soaked in paraffine to keep down the vermin, shaved their heads for the same reason, and because there were no stretchers, carried their patients through the streets on their backs."—Miss Burke.

"About 3,000,000 surgical dressings are now being supplied each month by the American Red Cross. This is not sufficient. We need 5,000,000 a month. At this point let me say that no supplies are sold to soldiers by the Red Cross. I want to make this plain to offset reports to the contrary."—General Manager Gibson.

"The Red Cross nurses in Serbia hadn't the sporting chances that the men in the trenches had. Once they went into an abandoned tobacco factory to nurse the men who were sitting about on the stone benches watching, as much as the stupor of typhus fever would let them watch, for the men to die so they could take their places on the mattresses on the floors."—Miss Burke.

"All our expenditures are made on the appropriation or budget system. The requests of our foreign commissions are passed on carefully. The money is then taken out of the war fund and put in the treasury of the Red Cross, which then becomes subject to the audit of the war department."—General Manager Gibson.

REVIVAL MEETING.

The Baptist church will begin a meeting next Sunday morning with the pastor doing the preaching for a few services. Rev. Gaugh is expecting the assistance of Rev. J. S. Wilson, pastor of First Baptist church, Mt. Sterling, Ky. Mr. Wilson is said to be a most excellent preacher. The pastor and church most cordially invite the public to attend every service and to feel perfectly at home. The services will begin each day after Sunday at 2:00 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

MORE WAYNE COUNTY SE- LECTIVES CERTIFIED BY BOARD

In order to complete its quota of men for selective military service the local board for Wayne county has certified a list of eleven young men and they have been notified by the local board to be in readiness to report when called. The final quota of thirty five per cent of selectives from this county will be called upon to depart about the 25th inst.

Frank Murphy, Ceredo; Millard Riggs, Sheals; Fleary Pack, Weir; Sidney Workman, Sidney; Harry Emmitt Cook, Kenova; Ezra Cole, Ceredo; Lee Roy Chinn, Lavalette; William S. Napier, East Lynn; William Miller, Webb; Omar Paul Rowe, Dunleith.

GAME WARDEN DOWLING SHOT.

Game Warden Dowling is lying at the point of death at the King's Daughters Hospital, Ashland, suffering from a bullet wound. Night Lieut. Cliff Rice was arrested at Catlettsburg an hour after the shooting and is confined in the Ashland jail pending his examination trial. The shooting is said to have been the culmination of an argument between the two men.

CHAS. MARCUM DIES AT CAMP TAYLOR

BODY OF VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL.

The body of Charles Marcum was brought to this county last Thursday morning and was taken to the Peter Marcum graveyard, near Fallsburg, for burial. Rev. H. B. Hewlett of this city, conducted the services. Mr. Marcum died on Friday night at Camp Zachary Taylor after an illness of about a week with pneumonia. He went as a volunteer to the army a few months ago from Boyd county and was a member of the Fifth Company, 159th Depot Brigade. Appropriate funeral services for him and Peter Nunn, another Camp Taylor boy, of Hart-co., whose death occurred about the same time were held there before their bodies were sent to their homes for interment.

Mr. Marcum was twenty-five years old and a son of Henry Marcum, who moved from this place to Normal, Boyd-co., several years ago, where the family still resides.

The body was brought to Ashland Saturday night and was accompanied there by ten members of Co. 52d Battalion to which he belonged. The soldiers intended to give their deceased comrade a military burial, but after it was decided to bring the remains to Lawrence county their plans had to be abandoned as the guard of honor was due back at camp before they could have made the return from a more distant point than Ashland.

Those who accompanied the remains to Ashland were Privates Oscar Schmauch, Harry Scott, Allen Caldwell, Chas. Watson, John Martin, Frank Layne, Strother Montgomery, S. V. Crompton, Bud Spears and Bulger Mike Davis.

Private Marcum is the second Boyd county boy to die in the service of his country since the war with Germany began and his name will be enrolled on the honor roll of the county to which he dedicated his life.

JOHN E. HORTON TO MOVE.

Mrs. Mary Horton received a telegram Wednesday from her son John at Fort Thomas saying that he had orders to leave there Thursday. The message came too late for Wednesday trains so Mrs. Horton went to Cincinnati on the early N. & W. train Thursday morning. John did not know where he was to be sent.

RED CROSS WOMEN TO MEET.

All Red Cross sub-committees are expected to meet at the women's headquarters on Saturday afternoon, November 24, at two o'clock to plan the work.

Mrs. W. L. FERGUSON.

IMPROVED PASSENGER SERVICE ON N. & W.

SECOND SECTION ADDED TO TWO THROUGH TRAINS WILL FACILITATE TRAFFIC.

Effective Wednesday, the 21st the Norfolk & Western railroad added a second section to its through passenger trains Nos. 4 and 15. This is an improvement that will be welcomed by the traveling public, as it will insure prompt service.

The first section of each of these trains will carry the Pullmans and passengers and their baggage, but no mail or express, thus eliminating the chief cause of delays. The second section, following the first as closely as possible, will carry express and postal cars, as well as baggage and coaches, but no Pullmans. This section will also take care of the passenger business at points where it is necessary to wait for delayed connecting trains.

Train 15 passes Fort Gay-Louisa going west at 1:05 p. m. No. 4 passes at 2:05 a. m., going east.

Passengers on the first section will be able to count on prompt service. The second section often will prove convenient also for the shorter runs.

TWO YOUNG MEN SHOT THEIR HANDS OFF

A boy named McKenzie had one hand nearly shot off Tuesday at Fort Gay and was brought to Riverview hospital, where an operation was performed in an effort to save two fingers and the thumb. The boy was assisting the family in moving and took hold of a gun by the muzzle, striking the lock against something and causing the discharge.

Fifteen year old "Lude" Pennington came to the hospital in Louisa Monday to have a badly injured hand dressed. He had accidentally discharged a shot gun and shot away a portion of his hand. He was out hunting and two dogs got to fighting, and when he tried to separate them with the butt of the gun it was discharged.

CATLETTSBURG SOLDIER DIES FROM EFFECTS OF GAS

Garfield Vanhose of Catlettsburg died in a Cincinnati hospital. He was 30 years of age and for two or three years fought in the trenches with British forces on the French front and was a victim of the poisonous gases used by the Germans, which caused his death. Vanhose was presented with a bronze medal for bravery. His father, who is ninety years old, lives in Catlettsburg. Young Vanhose returned home about a year ago, suffering greatly from the effects of the gas.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

Union Thanksgiving services will be held at the M. E. Church South on Thursday morning, November 29, beginning at 10:30. The sermon will be preached by Rev. A. C. Bostwick of the M. E. Church. Other pastors of the town will participate in the services. Everybody invited and urged to attend.

MINISTER'S UNION.

At the meeting of the Minister's Union on Monday morning the following resolution was passed:

Whereas the Y. M. C. A. is the only Protestant organization permitted to work for the moral and spiritual welfare of our soldiers and the American Red Cross is the only organization authorized by the National Government to care for the sick and wounded and dying soldiers and sailors and their dependents at home, we as members of the Louisa Minister's Union respectfully urge our people to do their utmost in the support of these worthy organizations:

Further, we would call attention to the character and standing of the men who are at the head of the Y. M. C. A. in all its branches and to the fact that the National Government supervises the work of the American Red Cross as carefully as that of any other department.

The Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church will hold their Christmas bazaar December 14 and 15.

WOMAN SHARP SHOOTER INSTRUCTING SAMMIES

Camp Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss., Nov. 15.—This army post boasts of its first woman to qualify as a sharpshooter in the American army—and she hails from Kentucky.

Mrs. Jackson Morris, wife of Major Morris, former secretary to the governor of Kentucky, holds an honor. With the heavy regulation Springfield rifle used in the army, she made forty-five hits out of a possible fifty at 600 yards and with the automatic revolver she sent a stream of lead into the target at 70 paces, all hits so close together they could be covered with a dime.

Today Mrs. Morris is on the range as an instructor and under orders from Uncle Sam.

LOUISA RESIDENCE DESTROYED BY FIRE

E. S. THOMPSON'S HOME BURN- ED EARLY LAST SATURDAY EVENING.

About seven o'clock last Saturday evening the residence of Everett S. Thompson, rural route carrier, was destroyed by fire. There was nobody in the house when the fire was discovered, the family having gone to the picture show. The flames had made such headway when discovered that only a few pieces of household goods were saved. A piano was the most valuable article taken out.

Considerable delay and difficulty was experienced in getting a stream of water into play. The nearest plug proved to be out of order, and one line of hose burst. When the water was put into the flames were soon extinguished, leaving a part of the frame standing.

E. T. Westlake's house was in great danger for a while, one end of it being considerably damaged by the flames. His furniture and supplies were moved out and thieves got in their work on the food supplies.

The Thompson house stood at the head of Main-st. and was one of the old landmarks of Louisa. For many years it was the home of W. A. Holt, later being purchased by L. M. Copley. He sold it to Thompson about a year ago. We are informed that the house was insured for $1250. The origin of the fire is unknown.

MRS. FETTER WILL EN- TERTAIN STUDENTS SUNDAY

Huntington Herald-Dispatch:—Among the interesting announcements made last night in connection with the meeting of the Board of Education of the Western Virginia Conference of the M. E. Church, South, at the Hotel Frederick, was that of the fact that Mrs. Samuel P. Fetter of Ashland, formerly Mrs. John C. C. Mayo, will entertain the faculty and students of Morris Harvey College at dinner at the Frederick on Sunday.

The Board of Education, which is ex-officio the board of trustees of Morris Harvey College was advised of the fact that the students are to be brought from Barboursville Sunday morning in automobiles to attend the services at Johnson Memorial, where Rev. Walter Anthony will address a special sermon to them. The automobiles will be dispatched by a committee of the Board of Stewards of Johnson Memorial headed by Stuart H. Bowman.

President Darlington of Morris Harvey was in Ashland yesterday for a conference with Mrs. Fetter, who is one of the staunch friends and supporters of christian education in the Western Virginia Conference and it was through him that her invitation to the students was extended.

CLOTHING CAUGHT IN THE SHAFTING

Uriah McCoy, an employee at the plant of the Kenova Saw Mill company, had a narrow escape from a horrible death last Monday. In some manner the clothing of Mr. McCoy became entangled in the shafting of the mill and he was hurled through the air, making a number of revolutions before he clothing was torn from his body. When picked up by fellow employees McCoy was perfectly nude, all his clothing having been torn from him with the exception of a ringle of an undergarment on each leg from the knee to the ankle. He was also unconscious and the other workmen thought for a time that he was dead. The injured man finally rallied and became conscious before the arrival of the doctor. An examination by the physician revealed the fact that McCoy had been bruised and injured practically all over his body, but it is believed he will recover.

CAUGHT IN MACHINERY AND BRAINS BEATEN OUT

Greenup, Ky., Nov. 16.—William G. Wilson, 60 years old, was killed here in a mill of which he had charge. Wilson was fixing a piece of machinery when a screw on a shaft under which he had crawled caught in his sweater and whirled his body around until his brains were beaten out. All clothing was torn from his body.

VETERAN EDUCATOR AT CAPITAL

Wesley Banks, pioneer mountain educator who has taught school forty-three years without a break, paid his first visit to Frankfort Saturday to see Secretary of State James P. Lewis. He is teaching the school at Dry Fork, Letcher-co. It was he, who when Prof. Noe of the University of Kentucky, speaking in Letcher-co., praised the mountain people by saying he thought so much of them that he married a mountain girl, retorted, "I like them so well that I have married five of them."

500 FROM CANTONMENT ARRIVE AT CAMP PIKE

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 17.—Under the command of Capt. Newrick 500 drafted men from Camp Zachary Taylor reached Camp Pike this afternoon and were assigned to Infantry organization in the 87 Division, National Army. The detail is the first of the increment which will be sent here from the Kentucky cantonment, and replaces Arkansas and Louisiana selectives who were transferred to National Army cantonments. The trip through to Camp Pike was made without delay and without accident.

REPRESENTATIVE IS KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Olive Hill, Ky., Nov. 21.—William Gearhart, Representative in the State Legislature from the One Hundredth District, composing Carter and Elliott counties, was instantly killed by a falling beam at a barn raising near his home at Cenn, this county. Gearhart was a Republican and a farmer. A special election probably will be held to elect his successor.

EASTERN KY. TEACHERS TO MEET IN LEXINGTON

The annual meeting of the Eastern Kentucky Educational Association will be held this year in Lexington, November 30 to December 1. Between 1200 and 1500 Kentucky teachers are expected to attend. An interesting program has been prepared and some of the most prominent educators of the country will speak.

JUDGE FOGG HEARING END.

The many friends of Hon. Finley E. Fogg will regret to learn that he is very low with tuberculosis at Lexington and that the end is not far off. Judge Fogg has been a useful man and his friends are numbered by his acquaintances.—Painville Herald.

KILLED A DEER.

Lee A. Garred came to town Monday to receive from the express company a deer killed by his son Lys in New York. It was a fine specimen. Lys is employed at Lion N. Y., and during a vacation took a hunting trip in the Adirondack mountains, where large game is plentiful.

A Returned Soldier's Picture

In Cincinnati Monday at a public meeting the principal address was made by Sergeant Arthur G. Empey, Ordan, Utah, who early in the war enlisted in the English army and fought in the trenches with the British army. Sergeant Empey said in part:

"I wish to tell you in a few words what the little Red Triangle (Y. M. C. A. emblem) means to the fighting men."

"The Y. M. C. A. to the fighting men is the only home on the western front. The army is recruited from all classes of men. The low, the middle and the high. If he comes from a low-class home it is home. If he comes from a middle class home it is home. If from a high-class it is home."

"There are just three things for the people at home to do. These boys are sent so that those at home will be safe; so that you may sleep on a soft bed at night and have 'three squares' a day. But they are giving up all of these. The Y. M. C. A. will have to take care of them."

"The picture of the Y. M. C. A. on the western front:

"You see a hut perhaps three-fourths as big as this room. In the middle is a big glowing stove. The men are wet and covered with mud. Finally the warmth dries the mud and thaws them out and they begin to smile. And then they talk and tell each other stories. Then the Y. M. C. A. Director comes in."

"He is a man who is physically and morally fit. He is able to whip any soldier in there. He comes along and says: 'Hello, Bill. I heard you were wounded. You answer: 'No such luck. I have been out for some time and never got a bullet.'"

"The Y. M. C. A. Director shows you where to find paper, pen and ink which are furnished free. The Y. M. C. A. will send the letters for you. After you have written your letter, the Director says 'we are going to have a little entertainment to-night.'"

"There is a stage in the end of the hut. They have good talent, for the army is recruited from all kinds of life."

"The Y. M. C. A. is the only real home of the soldier on the western front. It is up to every man after he has subscribed to the Y. M. C. A. to subscribe again, and he should keep on subscribing. We are going to lose men. We are going to have long casualty lists. We should give those boys who will never come back as good a time as we can before they die, and perhaps make them more fit to die."

DEATH OF MRS. DICK WELLMAN AT FORT GAY

The wife of Strother ("Dick") Wellman died at her home near Fort Gay, West Va., on Wednesday of this week after a long illness. She was about 55 years of age, was a sister of Peter Welch of this county. The body was taken to River, Ky., for interment.

MRS. WARREN ROBINSON DEAD.

Mrs. Warren Robinson died at her home near Fort Gay a few days ago, at the age of 83 years. The funeral was conducted by Rev. H. B. Hewlett of the M. E. Church South of which church she had long been a faithful member. She is survived by her husband who is in his 87th year. Also by several sons and daughters and many children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Among the daughters are Mrs. Monroe Ferguson, Mrs. C. R. Wellman and Mrs. J. H. Wellman, of Louisa. Mrs. Robinson was a daughter of "Honest Johnnie" Fraher. She and her husband had lived happily together for more than 60 years. By industry and frugality they have, from an humble beginning, accumulated quite an estate.

SUPPER AT YATESVILLE.

A ple supper will be given for the benefit of church at Yatesville Saturday evening November 24. Music by colored orchestra. Everybody come. Good time expected.

"OVER THE TOP" FOR Y. M. C. A.

LAWRENCE COUNTY, AS WELL AS THE STATE AND NATION, EXCEED QUOTA.

Again Lawrence county has done her bit. The amount asked for by the War Work department of the Y. M. C. A. has been given by our people, with a surplus thrown in for good measure. We were asked for $750.00 and the contribution amount to $793.00. In the Liberty Loan matter we met the demands also. It is gratifying to be able to say that Lawrence is not on the slacker list. The people are awakening to their duty in the great war for liberty.

Kentucky Exceeds Quota

Reports show Kentucky has given more than was asked. Boyd-co., which took by far the largest part of the amount assessed against the Big Sandy district, more than her share, which was $15,000. Judge John F. Hager was at the head of the movement there and devoted all his time to the work during the ten days campaign. Johnson county raised her assessment of $2000. We have not received reports from all the counties.

In the United States the amount contributed is about $50,000,000 which is fifteen millions more than was asked to carry on the work until next June.

THREE COUNTIES GET FARM DEMONSTRATOR

H. D. Caudill of Indian Bottom has been appointed farm demonstrator for Letcher, Perry and Harlan counties. He will at once enter upon a campaign to introduce more and better farming with systematic improved conditions throughout the mountains.

MRS. YATES IMPROVING.

Mrs. J. W. Yates, who was seriously ill for several weeks, was on a fair way to recovery, suffered a relapse on Sunday, but is now doing nicely. She has had diphtheria and bilious grip. Her many friends hope to see her within the next few weeks.

Desperate Fighting in Italy

The drive into Italy by an enormous German and Austrian army is quite a blow to the cause of liberty, or at least a set-back. Even if it should not succeed in crushing Italy and putting her out of the war the effect of putting new life into the German and Austrian masses means prolonging the war. The invading army has driven 60 to 80 miles into Italy, between the coast and the Alps. For a few days the Italians have held their lines against the enemy but they may be forced to retire to a river in their rear where the chances for a permanent stand are better.

Following is an account of recent desperate fighting last Monday:

The Austrians who forced their way across the Piave River above Zenson have been thrown into the river, drowned, bayoneted, killed or captured, until now not an enemy remains on the west bank at that threatened point. The fight was one of the most fearful chapters of the war, and one of the most glorious.

The wounded were so numerous that many have not received succor. The enemy had staked everything on getting to the west bank of the river, and the Italians staked everything on keeping him on the eastern bank. This proved both to be a sensation.

The Austrians made the first move Friday in two separate assaults a short distance above Zenson.

Several circumstances enabled them to push. They chose a place where a narrow ravine in midstream giving them a landing and dividing the main stream into two small, shallow currents.

Also, there was a heavy mist screening their movements. They carried material for an improvised bridge, with uprights and with iron plates for flooring.

This was about 5 o'clock in the morning, and in the mist at that early hour they got across the second narrow channel to the west bank. The last 10 feet the men waded across in water above their waists. In their first surprise rush they swept past four Italian machine-gun batteries, capturing the guns and driving the Italians back into the village of Fagare.

Here the real fight began, as the Italians had now recovered from the surprise and they fought like demons. It was a hand-to-hand fight through the streets of the town, with no place for artillery or machine guns and the Italians using bayonets, hand grenades, knives and gelatine torpedoes. The Austrians held part of the town near the bank with the Italians on the land side.

The Austrians tried to throw a line around the town and succeeded in part on one side until the Italian batteries on the north got the range of the line and the first to be demolished, and then the Italians on this side of town advanced, cheering, heaving their way. The enemy held at first, then began to seek cover and finally broke, as the Italians pushed into the town, back to the river. Some plunged into the water and sought to get to the sand bar.

All the machine guns were abandoned. Most of the enemy fell along the water's edge, and an observer who saw the Germans die, says the bodies on the river bank and the water reminded him of hundreds of severed after the tide had gone out.

BIG VICTORY BY BRITISH FORCESSURPRISE ATTACK BREAKS FA-MOUS GERMAN LINE FOR THIRTY-TWO MILES.

At daylight on Wednesday morning the British soldiers in northern France rose up without the firing of a big gun and fought their way over the surprised German lines and right through the Hindenburg fortresses that were supposed to be impregnable. The attack was 32 miles long and advances were made for five miles or more and at last accounts were continuing at some points.

"Tanks," the large tractors which ride over and crush all obstructions such as barbed wire, posts, small trees, trenches, etc., played a large part in the immense victory. Eight thousand prisoners and many big guns were captured.

This is the first attack made with-out artillery preparation, which has come to be depended upon as a warning. Gen. Haig decided them completely by not using the artillery. Also, by getting the tanks, supplies and men into the lines during several nights preceding the attack and keeping them concealed.

Lawrence County Red Cross

The Executive Committee, with a number of the members of the Sub-Committees, met at the new Red Cross headquarters in the F. H. Yates building on Tuesday evening. The committee on Woman's Work has fitted this room in fine shape for cutting and sewing and for committee meetings. Much material and several patterns have been ordered and numbers of the women will soon be very busy, both at the headquarters and at home. The women have the work well planned and interest in this practical side of the work is rapidly increasing. You are invited to visit the room and get in line. One shipment of knitted goods has been made and another will soon be ready.

Besides a certain amount of knitted work the women will concentrate on a definite number of kinds of hospital garments. They may be prepared soon to make some of the surgical dressings.

An auxiliary has been organized at Walbridge and calls from other places are coming in. The secretary has been empowered to look after these calls and organize as rapidly as possible. Lawrence county is getting interested and much good work will be accomplished. Every member is ready to help in every way possible.

The National Committee of the American Red Cross has called a great membership campaign for the purpose of increasing the membership to 15,000,000 by Christmas. Rev. W. A. Gaugh was elected campaign manager for the Lawrence County Chapter. We now have 256 members. What ought it to be by Christmas? 5000 would only be one-fourth of our population.

Don't forget to get in touch with the work the women have planned. They will be glad to talk to you about the great need of supplies and tell you what you can help do.

The secretary reports that there are two points that at this time ought to be emphasized. First: The American Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. are NOT the same. Both are very important but work along different lines. Second: The Red Cross is asked to co-operate with local charity organizations but is not organized just for the purpose of doing what may be called the ordinary local charity work. It might be well for the citizens of Louisa to get this matter in shape so it could be worked through, or in co-operation with the local Red Cross Chapter.

One of the more important committees of the Red Cross work is the committee on Civilian Relief. W. D. O'Neal is chairman of this committee. Its importance will be more apparent in a few months as they, among many other things, must plan for the time when the soldiers begin to come back from the front. We can not expect all to come back sound and well. Broadly speaking, any service the government is not equipped to render will be the work of this committee.

Send in your questions or your calls for organization to chapter headquarters and everything will have prompt attention.

The Red Cross is under orders to serve.

Here is some information for the public to think over:

"We have heard that we are operating at a big overhead expense. This is false. For every dollar you give us we get about $1.02 of value. We work this by a fine system of interest with the banks."—Chairman Davison.

"We have decided to carry the theory of our knitting department into the 90 per cent whole organization—this is per cent common sense and 10 per cent instruction."—General Manager Gibson.

"Red Cross nurses unfortunately are not always pretty clad, as you might imagine from the magazine covers. In Serbia the Scotch nurses worked in pajamas soaked in paraffine to keep down the vermin, shaved their heads for the same reason, and because there were no stretchers, carried their patients through the streets on their backs."—Miss Burke.

"About 3,000,000 surgical dressings are now being supplied each month by the American Red Cross. This is not sufficient. We need 5,000,000 a month. At this point let me say that the supplies are sold to soldiers by the Red Cross. I want to make this plain to offset reports to the contrary."—General Manager Gibson.

The Red Cross nurses in Serbia hadn't the sporting chances that the men in the trenches had. Once they went into an abandoned tobacco factory to nurse the men who were sitting about on the stone benches watching, as much as the stupor of typhus fever would let them watch, for the men to die so they could take their places on the mattresses on the floors."—Miss Burke.

"All our expenditures are made on the appropriation or budget system. The requis of our foreign commissions are passed on carefully. The money is then taken out of the war fund and put in the treasury of the Red Cross, which then becomes subject to the audit of the war department."—General Manager Gibson.

REVIVAL MEETING.

The Baptist church will begin a meeting next Sunday morning with the pastor doing the preaching for a few services. Rev. Gaugh is expecting the assistance of Rev. J. S. Wilson, pastor of First Baptist church, Mt. Sterling, Ky. Mr. Wilson is said to be a most excellent preacher. The pastor and church most cordially invite the public to attend every service and to feel perfectly at home. The services will begin each day after Sunday at 2:00 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

MORE WAYNE COUNTY SE-
LECTIVES CERTIFIED BY BOARD

In order to complete its quota of men for selective military service the local board for Wayne county has certified a list of eleven young men and they have been notified by the local board to be in readiness to report when called. The final quota of thirty-five per cent of selectives from this county will be called upon to depart about the 25th inst.

Frank Murphy, Ceredo; Millard Riggs, Sheldale; Fleury Pack, West Sidney; Workman, Sidney; Harry Emmitt Cook, Kenova; Ezra Cole, Ceredo; Lee Roy Chinn, Lavalette; William S. Napier, East Lynn; William Miller, Webb; Omar Paul Rowe, Cunleith.

GAME WARDEN DOWLING SHOT.

Game Warden Dowling is lying at the point of death at the King's Daughters Hospital, Ashland, suffering from a bullet wound. Night Lieut. Cliff Rice was arrested at Catlettsburg an hour after the shooting and is confined in the Ashland jail pending his examination trial. The shooting is said to have been the culmination of an argument between the two men.

CHAS. MARCUM DIES
AT CAMP TAYLORBODY OF VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL.

The body of Charles Marcum was brought to this county last Thursday morning and was taken to the Peter Marcum graveyard, near Fallsburg, for burial. Rev. H. B. Hewlett of this city, conducted the services. Mr. Marcum died on Friday night at Camp Zachary Taylor after an illness of about a week with pneumonia. He went as a volunteer to the army a few months ago from Boyd county and was a member of the Fifth Company, 158th Depot Brigade. Appropriate funeral services for him and Peter Nunn, another Camp Taylor boy, of Hart-co., whose death occurred about the same time, were held there before their bodies were sent to their homes for interment.

Mr. Marcum was twenty-five years old and a son of Henry Marcum, who moved from this place to Normal, Boyd-co., several years ago, where the family still resides.

The body was brought to Ashland Saturday night and was accompanied there by ten members of Co. 5 2d East-talon to which he belonged. The soldiers intended to give their deceased comrade a military burial, but after it was decided to bring the remains to Lawrence county their plans had to be abandoned as the guard of honor was 'back' at camp before they could have made the return from a more distant point than Ashland.

Those who accompanied the remains to Ashland were Privates Oscar Schmauch, Harry Scott, Alvin Caldwell, Chas. Watson, John Martin, Frank Compton, End Spears and Bulger Mike Davis.

Private Marcum is the second Boyd county boy to die in the service of his country since the war with Germany began and his name will be enrolled on the honor roll of the county to which he dedicated his life.

JOHN E. HORTON TO MOVE.

Mrs. Mary Horton received a telegram Wednesday from her son John at Fort Thomas saying that he had orders to leave there Thursday. The message came too late for Wednesday trains so Mrs. Horton went to Cincinnati on the early N. & W. train Thursday morning. John did not know where he was to be sent.

RED CROSS WOMEN TO MEET.

All Red Cross sub-committees are expected to meet at the women's headquarters on Saturday afternoon, November 24, at two o'clock to plan the work.

IMPROVED PASSENGER
SERVICE ON N. & W.SECOND SECTION ADDED TO TWO THROUGH TRAINS WILL FACILITATE TRAFFIC.

Effective Wednesday, the 21st the Norfolk & Western railroad added a second section to its through passenger trains Nos. 4 and 15. This is an improvement that will be welcomed by the traveling public, as it will insure prompt service.

The first section of each of these trains will carry the Pullmans and passengers and their baggage, but no mail or express, thus eliminating the chief cause of delays. The second section, following the first as closely as possible, will carry express and postal cars, as well as baggage and coaches, but no Pullmans. This section will also take care of the passenger business at points where it is necessary to wait for delayed connecting trains.

Train 15 passes Fort Gay-Louisa going west at 1:05 p. m. No. 4 passes at 2:06 a. m., going east.

Passengers on the first section will be able to count on prompt service. The second section often will prove convenient also for the shorter runs.

TWO YOUNG MEN SHOT
THEIR HANDS OFF

A boy named McKensie had one hand nearly shot off Tuesday at Fort Gay and was brought to Riverview hospital, where an operation was performed in an effort to save two fingers and the thumb. The boy was assisting the family in moving and took hold of a gun by the muzzle, striking the lock against something and causing the discharge.

Fifteen year old "Lude Pennington" came to the hospital in Louisa Monday to have a badly injured hand dressed. He had accidentally discharged a shot-gun and shot away a portion of his hand. He was out hunting and two dogs got to fighting, and when he tried to separate them with the butt of the gun it was discharged.

CATLETTSBURG SOLDIER DIES
FROM EFFECTS OF GAS

Garfield Vanhoose of Catlettsburg died at a Cincinnati hospital. He was 30 years of age and for two or three years fought in the trenches with British forces on the French front and was a victim of the poisonous gases used by the Germans, which caused his death. Vanhoose was presented with a bronze medal for bravery. His father, who is ninety years old, lives in Catlettsburg. Young Vanhoose returned home about a year ago, suffering greatly from the effects of the gas.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE.

Union Thanksgiving services will be held at the M. E. Church South on Thursday morning, November 29, beginning at 10:30. The sermon will be preached by Rev. A. C. Bostwick of the M. E. Church. Other pastors of the town will participate in the services. Everybody invited and urged to attend.

M. E. CHURCH SOUTH.

MINISTER'S UNION.

At the meeting of the Minister's Union on Monday morning the following resolution was passed:

Whereas the Y. M. C. A. is the only Protestant organization permitted to work for the moral and spiritual welfare of our soldiers, and the American Red Cross is the only organization authorized by the National Government to care for the sick and wounded and dying soldiers and sailors and their dependents at home, we as members of the Louisa Minister's Union respectfully urge our people to do their utmost in the support of these worthy organizations:

Further, we would call attention to the character and standing of the men who are at the head of the Y. M. C. A. in all its branches and to the fact that the National Government supervises the work of the American Red Cross as carefully as that of any other department.

Signed: W. A. GAUGH
H. O. CHAMBERS
A. C. BOSTWICK.

M. E. CHURCH BAZAAR.

The Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church will hold their Christmas bazaar December 14 and 15.

WOMAN SHARP SHOOTER
INSTRUCTING SAMMIES

Camp Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss., Nov. 15.—This army post boasts of the first woman to qualify as a sharpshooter in the American army—and she's from Kentucky.

Mrs. Jackson Morris, wife of Major Morris, former secretary to the governor of Kentucky, holds an honor. With the heavy regulation Springfield rifle used in the army, she made forty-five hits out of a possible fifty at 600 yards and with the automatic revolver she sent a stream of lead into the target at 70 paces. All hits so close together they could be covered with a dime. Today Mrs. Morris is on the range as an instructor and under orders from Uncle Sam.

LOUISA RESIDENCE
DESTROYED BY FIREE. S. THOMPSON'S HOME BURN-ED EARLY LAST SATURDAY EVENING.

About seven o'clock last Saturday evening the residence of Everett S. Thompson, rural route carrier, was destroyed by fire. There was nobody in the house when the fire was discovered, the family having gone to the picture show. The flames had made such headway when discovered that only a few pieces of household goods were saved. A piano was the most valuable article taken out.

Considerable delay and difficulty was experienced in getting a stream of water into play. The nearest plug proved to be out of order, and one line of hose burst. When the water was put into the flames were soon extinguished, leaving a part of the frame standing.

E. T. Westlake's house was in great danger for a while, one end of it being considerably damaged by the flames. His furniture and supplies were moved out and thieves got in their work on the food supplies.

The Thompson house stood at the head of Main-st. and was one of the old landmarks of Louisa. For many years it was the home of W. A. Holt, later being purchased by L. M. Coppley. He sold it to Thompson about a year ago. We are informed that the house was insured for $1250. The origin of the fire is unknown.

MRS. FETTER WILL EN-TERTAIN STUDENTS SUNDAY

Huntington Herald-Dispatch:—Among the interesting announcements made last night in connection with the meeting of the Board of Education of the Western Virginia Conference of the M. E. Church, South, at the Hotel Frederick, was that of the fact that Mrs. Samuel P. Fetter of Ashland, formerly Mrs. John C. C. Mayo, will entertain the faculty and students of Morris Harvey College at dinner at the Frederick on Sunday.

The Board of Education, which is ex-officio the board of trustees of Morris Harvey College was advised of the fact that the students are to be brought from Barboursville Sunday morning in automobiles to attend the services at Johnson Memorial, where Rev. Walter Anthony will address a special sermon to them. The automobiles will be dispatched by a committee of the Board of Stewards of Johnson Memorial headed by Stuart H. Bowman.

President Darlington of Morris Harvey was in Ashland yesterday for a conference with Mrs. Fetter, who is one of the staunch friends and supporters of Christian education in the Western Virginia Conference and it was through him that her invitation to the students was extended.

CLOTHING CAUGHT IN THE SHAFTING

Uriah McCoy, an employee at the plant of the Kenova Saw Mill company, had a narrow escape from a horrible death last Monday. In some manner the clothing of Mr. McCoy became entangled in the shafting with the result he was hauled through the air, making a number of revolutions before he clothing was torn from his body. When picked up by fellow employees McCoy was perfectly nude, all his clothing having been torn from him with the exception of a right of an undergarment on each leg from the knee to the ankle. He was also unconscious and the other workmen thought for a time that he was dead. The injured man finally rallied and became conscious before the arrival of the doctor. An examination by the physician revealed the fact that McCoy had been bruised and injured practically all over his body, but it is believed he will recover.

CAUGHT IN MACHINERY AND BRAINS BEATEN OUT

Greenup, Ky., Nov. 15.—William G. Wilson, 60 years old, was killed here in a mill of which he had charge. Wilson was fixing a piece of machinery when a screw on a shaft under which he had crawled caught in his sweater and whirled his body around until his brains were beaten out. All clothing was torn from his body.

VETERAN EDUCATOR AT CAPITAL

Wesley Banks, pioneer mountain educator who taught school forty-three years without break, paid his first visit to Frankfort Saturday to see Secretary of State James P. Lewis. He is teaching the school at Dry Fork, Letcher-co. It was he, who when Prof. Noel of the University of Kentucky, speaking in Letcher-co, praised the mountain people by saying he thought so much of them that he married a mountain girl, retorted, "I like them so well that I have married five of them."

500 FROM CANTONMENT
ARRIVE AT CAMP PIKE

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 17.—Under the command of Capt. Newkirk, 500 drafted men from Camp Zachary Taylor reached Camp Pike this afternoon and were assigned to infantry organization in the 87 Division, National Army. The detail is the first of the increment which will be sent here from the Kentucky cantonment, and replaces Arkansas and Louisiana selectives who were transferred to National Army cantonments. The trip through to Camp Pike was made without delay and without accident.

REPRESENTATIVE IS KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Olive Hill, Ky., Nov. 21.—William Gearhart, Representative in the State Legislature from the One Hundredth district, composing Carter and Elliott counties, was instantly killed by a falling beam at a barn raising near his home at Conn., this county. Gearhart was a Republican and a farmer. A special election probably will be held to elect his successor.

EASTERN KY. TEACHERS TO MEET IN LEXINGTON

The annual meeting of the Eastern Kentucky Educational Association will be held this year in Lexington, November 30 to December 1. Between 1200 and 1500 Kentucky teachers are expected to attend. An interesting program has been prepared and some of the most prominent educators of the country will speak.

JUDGE FOGG NEARING END.

The many friends of Hon. Finley E. Fogg will regret to learn that he is very low with tuberculosis at Lexington and that the end is not far off. Judge Fogg has been a useful man and his friends are numbered by his acquaintances.—Painsville Herald.

KILLED A DEER.

Lee A. Garred came to town Monday to receive from the express company a deer killed by his son Lys in New York. It was a fine specimen. Lys is employed at Lion N. Y., and during a vacation took a hunting trip in the Adirondack mountains, where large game is plentiful.

A Returned Soldier's Picture

In Cincinnati Monday at a public meeting the principal address was made by Sergeant Arthur G. Empey Ogden, Utah, who early in the war enlisted in the English army and fought in the trenches with the British army. Sergeant Empey said in part:

"I wish to tell you in a few words what the little Red Triangle (Y. M. C. A. emblem) means to the fighting men."

"The Y. M. C. A. to the fighting men is the only home on the western front. The army is recruited from all classes of men. The low, the middle and the high. If he comes from a low-class home it is home. If he comes from a middle class home it is home. If from a high-class it is home."

"There are just three things for the people at home to do. These boys are sent so that those at home will be safe; so that you may sleep on a soft bed at night and have 'three squares' a day. But they are giving up all of these. The Y. M. C. A. will have to take care of them."

"A picture of the Y. M. C. A. on the western front:

"You see a hut perhaps three-fourths as big as this room. In the middle is a big glowing stove. The men are wet and covered with mud. Finally the warmth dries the mud and dries them out and they begin to smile. And then they talk and tell each other stories. Then the Y. M. C. A. Director comes in."

"He is a man who is physically and morally fit. He is able to whip any soldier in there. He comes along and says: 'Hello, Bill. I heard you were wounded. You answer: 'No such luck. I have been out for some time and never got a bullet.'"

"The Y. M. C. A. Director shows you where to find paper, pen and ink, which are furnished free. The Y. M. C. A. will send the letters for you. After you have written your letters, the Director says 'we are going to have a little entertainment to-night.' There is a stage in the end of the hut. They have good talent, for the army is recruited from all kinds of life."

"The Y. M. C. A. is the only real home of the soldier on the Western front. It is up to every man after he has subscribed to the Y. M. C. A. to subscribe again, and he should keep on subscribing. We are going to lose men. We are going to have long casualty lists. We should give those boys who will never come back as good a time as we can before they die, and perhaps make them more fit to die."

DEATH OF MRS. DICK
WELLMAN AT FORT GAY

The wife of Strother ("Dick") Wellman died at her home near Fort Gay, West Va., on Wednesday of this week after a long illness. She was about 55 years of age, was a sister of Peter Welch of this county. The body was taken to River, Ky., for interment.

MRS. WARREN ROBINSON DEAD.

Mrs. Warren Robinson died at her home near Fort Gay a few days ago, at the age of 83 years. The funeral was conducted by Rev. H. B. Hewlett of the M. E. Church South of which church she had long been a faithful member. She is survived by her husband who is in his 87th year. Also by several sons and daughters and many children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Among the daughters are Mrs. Monroe Ferguson, Mrs. C. R. Wellman and Mrs. J. H. Wellman, of Louisa. Mrs. Robinson was a daughter of " Honest Johnnie" Frasier. She and her husband had lived happily together for more than 60 years. By industry and frugality they have, from a humble beginning, accumulated quite an estate.

SUPPER AT YATESVILLE.

A pie supper will be given for the benefit of church at Yatesville Saturday evening November 24. Music by colored orchestra. Everybody come. Good time expected.

"OVER THE TOP"
FOR Y. M. C. A.LAWRENCE COUNTY, AS WELL AS THE STATE AND NATION, EXCEED QUOTA.

Again Lawrence county has done her bit. The amount asked for by the War Work department of the Y. M. C. A. has been given by our people, with a surplus thrown in for good measure. We were asked for $750.00 and the contribution amount to $791.00. In the Liberty Loan matter we met the demands also. It is gratifying to be able to say that Lawrence is not on the slacker list. The people are awakening to their duty in the great war for liberty.

Kentucky Exceeds Quota

Reports show Kentucky has given more than was asked. Boyd-co., which took by far the largest part of the amount assessed against the Big Sandy district, raised more than her share, which was $15,000. Judge John F. Hager was at the head of the movement there and devoted all his time to the work during the ten days campaign. Johnson county raised her assessment of $2000. We have not received reports from all the counties.

In the United States the amount contributed is about $50,000,000 which is fifteen millions more than was asked to carry on the work until next June.

THREE COUNTIES GET
FARM DEMONSTRATOR

H. D. Caudill of Indian Bottom has been appointed farm demonstrator for Letcher, Perry and Harlan counties. He will at once enter upon a campaign to introduce more and better farming—with systematic improved conditions—throughout the mountains.

MRS. YATES IMPROVING.

Mrs. J. W. Yates, who was seriously ill for several weeks and was on a fair way to recovery, suffered a relapse on Sunday, but is now doing nicely. She has had double pneumonia and bilious grip. Her many friends hope to see her out within the next few weeks.

Desperate Fighting in Italy

The drive into Italy by an enormous German and Austrian army is quite a blow to the cause of liberty, or at least a set-back. Even if it should not succeed in crashing Italy and putting her out of the war the effect of putting new life into the German and Austrian masses means prolonging the war. The invading army has driven 50 to 60 miles into Italy, between the coast and the Alps. For a few days the Italians have held their lines against the enemy but they may be forced to retire to a river in their rear where the chances for a permanent stand are better.

Following is an account of recent desperate fighting last Monday:

The Austrians who forced their way across the Piave River above Zenson have been thrown into the river, drowned, bayoneted, killed or captured, until now not an enemy remains on the west bank at that threatened point. The fight was one of the most fearful chapters of the war and one of the most glorious.

The wounded were so numerous that many have not received succor. The enemy had staked everything on getting to the west bank of the river, and the Italians staked everything on keeping him on the eastern bank. This needed both to desperation.

The Austrians made the first move Friday in two separate attacks a short distance above Zenson.

Several circumstances enabled them to pass. They chose a place where a sandbar ran in midstream giving them a landing and dividing the main stream into two small shallow currents.

Also, there was a heavy mist screening their movements. They carried material for an improvised bridge, with uprights and with iron plates for flooring.

This was about 5 o'clock in the morning, and in the mist at that early hour they got across the second narrow channel to the west bank. The last 10 feet the men waded across in water above their waists. In their first surprise rush they swept past four Italian machine-gun batteries, capturing the guns and driving the Italians back into the village of Fagaro.

Here the real fight began, as the Italians had now recovered from the surprise and they fought like demons. It was a hand-to-hand fight through the streets of the town, with no place for artillery or machine guns and the Italians using bayonets, hand grenades, knives and gelatine torpedoes. The Austrians held part of the town near the bank with the Italians on the land side.

The Austrians tried to throw a line around the town and succeeded in part on one side until the Italian batteries to the north got the range of the line outside the shelter of the streets. This line was the first to be demolished, and then the Italians on this side of town advanced, cheering, hewing their way. The enemy held at first, then began to seek cover and finally broke, as the Italians pushed into the town back to the river. Some plunged into the water and sought to get to the sand bar.

All the machine guns were abandoned. Most of the enemy fell along the water's edge, and on the river bank saw the growing mist. Says the bodies on the river bank and in the water reminded him of birds of prey after the tide had gone out.

HEALTH STRAPS BURN MANY

Celluloid Street Car Contrivances Ignite and Singe Passengers in Newark, N. J.

New York.—The Public Service Railways company of Newark, N. J., recently installed in its trolley cars celluloid "straps" for the strap-hangers, this as a hygienic measure.

A car from Newark to South Orange blew out a fuse at Howard street and South Orange avenue. Instantly every one of the new straps burst into flame. People got off the cars the best way they could, but several were burned.

The fire was put out by the fire department after it had done considerable damage.

GERMANS HURT IN PRACTICE FIGHT

Diary Exposes Carelessness of Teuton Gunners With Their Own Men.

REHEARSE FOR BIG BATTLES

Realism Carried to the Extreme by Germans in Preparing for Trial of New Strategy—Says Human Strength Is Powerless.

With the French Armies.—It is now pretty well known that both the French and Germans frequently rehearse their battles, under conditions as realistic as possible on specially prepared maneuver grounds. But, whereas the French on these occasions take great care that no men shall be injured, the Germans have carried realism to such a point that each exercise of this kind costs them a number of wounded. The fact is attested by the following extract from the notebook of a German of the 218th regiment of infantry:

"The exercise was to represent a new method of attack used by the French, and was to take place on the 21st, in the presence of the duke of Wuertemberg, and other personages. On the 17th our artillery regulated its fire preparatory to the exercise.

Men Wounded in Drill.

"On the 21st we were put in place at 8:15 a. m. From 9:30 to 10:30 the artillery and the trench mortars fired. We were given each fifty explosive cartridges, while the men of the first and second waves were given each, respectively, six and two loaded grenades. From the start, during the firing of the trench mortars, men were wounded by splinters. At 10:30 the business began, and toward 1:30 p. m. our companies were assembled for the goose step parade on the Hochwald-Waldersdorf road. This parade also took place before the duke of Wuertemberg. The exercise, it appears, satisfied these gentlemen entirely. So it will not be long now before we enter into the hell. Unhappily, several men were wounded, one seriously. It is really sad to see exercise of this kind carried out with real artillery and trench mortars. Aside from the fact that it costs a great deal of money, men are wounded almost regularly. So it is not enough that we should risk our lives when we are at the front, we must even be exposed to danger when we are supposed to be at rest."

And here are some extracts from the notebook of a German captured lately at Hill 304, near Verdun:

"Yesterday just after midnight we went up to the first line. The march was terrible. We were shelled from every side and the night was black. We got lost and had to wander two and a half hours in the open. After difficulty of every description we finally reached our shelter. And what a shelter! The entrance and the exit were half caved in. I hope the shells won't finally block them, for escape in such circumstances is not to be thought of. Our safety depends only on divine aid; human strength is powerless."

"Next day, 9:30 a. m.—I have just got up. In spite of the violent bombardment of shells and torpedoes I succeeded in getting more or less sleep. But we have gone without eating or drinking, as the supply men have not been able to get through the barrage fire. I still have a piece of bread and a little to drink; I will retain myself as long as possible. Who knows when we shall be revictualled?"

Why He Could Not Write.

On the day following the same soldier wrote a letter which was found on him when he was captured. I give this extract:

"Thou hast been waiting a long time for news of me, my dear Gertrude, but I can send thee nothing because the artillery fire is generally so intense that the supply men who take our letters cannot get to us. Last night, or rather today, we went to gather what the others threw away when they ran, and had some success, otherwise we would have had nothing to eat or drink. To suffer hunger and thirst, thou seest, is terrible. Every one says: 'If the French come now it's all up.' Thou seest in what a state we are."

And then the French did come.—Paul Scott Mowrer in the Chicago News.

TO BAKE PERSHING'S PIES

Appeal From General for Pastry Cook Is Heard by the Salvation Army.

Chicago.—"Mary Sheldon's making pies for Pershing."

This is the expression common at Salvation Army headquarters here. When General Pershing landed in France, Maj. D. W. Agnew, in charge of the Salvation Army here, cabled asking him what the Salvation Army could do that would be most appreciated by the commander of the American forces in France.

"Send me someone who can make an apple pie," was General Pershing's request, and Ensign Mary Sheldon forthwith was dispatched. Ensign Sheldon gained fame here showing mothers of Chicago slums how to cook.

KILL MEN AND WOMEN

Massacred in North Sea Battle by the Germans.

Norwegian Papers Tell of Attacks on Lifeboats and Firing on White Flags.

London.—An appalling story of cold-blooded massacres by Germans of the crews of British North sea convoys in a recent battle is told by the Norwegian papers.

The Tidenstegn said the German cruisers were observed at six o'clock in the morning and were thought to be British vessels, but at seven o'clock, when there was more light, they suddenly began shooting and the convoy was terrified to see the British destroyer at the stern of the convoy begin to sink, although it fought to the end.

The German cruisers, after signaling the vessels to stop, advanced on each side of the convoy, which they swept with all their guns at a range of less than two hundred yards.

The German destroyers came up and helped to spread death and destruction on the defenseless ships, shells falling thick and fast. The Germans were not content to sink the ships, but shelled the lifeboats, and every living thing coming their way was mercilessly slaughtered. The survivors owed their lives to the high sea which was running, making the boats a difficult mark.

In the midst of the massacre another British destroyer came up and immediately attacked, but was soon sunk in the unequal struggle. The German flotilla then cruised backward and forward along the sinking steamers, pouring a fresh and terrible rain of shells at a range of 100 yards.

One shell went through the Swedish ship Wimar, exploding in the lifeboat on the other side and killing all its occupants, fourteen men and three women.

The other lifeboat rowed back to rescue the captain and two waitresses from the wreck. A shell struck the boat and killed five of the occupants, only the mate escaping by swimming.

The Wimar was a mass of flames and the two girls jumped into the sea. The captain was saved by clinging to wreckage. As the two young women were sinking an English ship hoisted the white flag.

The answer of the Germans was a shot which killed both girls. Twelve men of another ship had just got into the lifeboat when a shell killed them all.

NEW TYPHOID SERUM FOUND

Entente Forces in Saloniki Virtually Free of Disease, Say Health Authorities.

London.—It is announced that the health and sanitary condition of the entente forces in Saloniki are better than ever before. There is no epidemic, no plagues and no typhoid.

In the suppression of typhoid use has been made of a new serum based on oil, which has given very satisfactory results. A French army report estimates that for the whole French army the average number of typhoid cases has been reduced to less than thirty.

Estranged Forty Years.

Findley, Ont.—William A. Mellen, aged sixty-nine, of Lima, and Miss Sarah E. Rhodes, aged fifty-six, of this city have been married here. They were lovers 40 years ago, but became estranged. In the meantime Mellen had twice married. Miss Rhodes never forgot her first love, and recently met him for the first time since they parted. Past differences were soon patched up and proposal, acceptance and marriage soon followed.

BEND IN ROAD

By P. W. HART.

It was a pretty spot. Upon the one hand stretched the broad river, with its swiftly gliding waters dandling and rippling in the clear sunlight. Upon either shore, and spreading well about, was a lustrous patch of woodland. The macadamized road made a sharp turn at this point, and, crossing a side-walled culvert, disappeared among the trees. A few steps beyond the culvert, and somewhat hidden from the roadway by a graceful clump of shrubbery, the kindly winds of heaven had supplied an ideal rustic seat—a great fallen tree trunk.

Presently the sharp clump, clump and rattle of an approaching horse and vehicle became audible. The equipage came in sight from around the corner. First of all, a wretched horse, of a dirty-white hue, with bones protruding so far that they well-nigh pierced his skin. A poor, miserable, cast out, scarecrow of a horse. Attached to him by a dilapidated set of harness, profusely mended with pieces of cord, rope and carpet, was an express wagon of uncertain age. The reins were wound carelessly about a treebranch stuck through a hole in the bottom of the wagon. The seat was unoccupied. In the rear part of the vehicle could be seen a pile of rags, bones, old metal, and a few old bottles. From somewhere among this mess protruded two roughly shod human feet. They belonged to the driver and proprietor of the caravan. He was thus sleeping while the patient beast trudged onward.

Over the culvert bridge went the outfit. In a few moments horse, boots, junk heap and wagon had passed out of sight around the bend. Everything was as it had been before, with the exception of a small piece of rusty wire lying in the middle of the roadway. The wagon's jolt had accomplished this slight change.

No sound heralded the next performance. A young lady on a bicycle came suddenly into view. The machine's well-adjusted bearing moved without even a murmur. The nickel parts flashed and glistened in the sun. The booted feet of the rider went around like tread-mill mice. She was traveling in a good speed. Suddenly "clinkety-clinkety-clinkety" sounded the rear wheel. Quick as a flash she dismounted and came to an abrupt halt. She bent eagerly over the machine to see what could be at fault. It did not take very long to discover. A piece of rusty wire protruded an inch or more from the rubber tire. Grasping hold of it firmly with one tiny gloved hand she pulled hard upon it. The wire came out. With a great gasp the tire breathed its last—at least for the time being.

"Pshaw!" ejaculated the young lady. "Seven miles from home and rear tire punctured. If I was a man I would swear a blue streak!"

"Whir-r-r-r!" Along came another cyclist. A man this time, and a sure-enough scorcher. But fast as he was going his quick eye noted the limp tire, and the almost equally limped figure of the young lady standing with her back to him.

"May I be of any assistance? I have a repair kit with—" he began, politely lifting his cap.

The girl spun around on her heels and looked at him.

It was then that he came to an abrupt pause.

"I beg your pardon; I didn't know it was—" began the man coldly.

"No explanations are necessary, sir," replied the young woman.

The accents of her voice somehow seemed to embolden him for he hesitated no longer, but began to ransack the tool bag of his machine.

"May I ask what you intend doing?" demanded the girl with some asperity.

"Going to fix that puncture so that you can ride home, at any rate," he replied, calmly unwinding a long piece of tire tape.

"No you're not."

"Yes, I am."

"You're not."

"I am." The man actually commenced to smile at her persistent denial.

"I shall call for help if you continue."

"Well, do so if you wish. The road is a lonely one. Probably nobody will hear you. First time I ever heard a young lady summoning assistance to prevent a man from repairing a breakdown of her bicycle."

The girl turned away to prevent him seeing the coming tears.

"There you are, Mar—excuse me—Miss—" he began bitterly.

"Thank you, Fred," she murmured, turning toward him with a suspicious brightness in her eyes.

The man made a hurried forward movement, took the young lady in his arms, and kissed her. She kissed him, too.

"I did not mean a word I said that evening—" she commenced as soon as he would let her talk.

"I was in a most awful temper," he interrupted. "Let me put the ring back on your finger again, and—"

A loud rumbling now made itself heard and they had barely time to ensconce themselves upon the hidden tree trunk before a great brewery wagon, loaded down with beer kegs, went thundering past. The noise completely drowned their further conversation. When silence was again restored they talked but little, and then only in whispers.

HIGHEST AWARDS

PASS ALONG THE SMOKES

YOU warm-hearted people of Lawrence county won't let the men who are fighting your fight go smoke-hungry.

Not a bit of it. You're going to see to it that they get all the tobacco they need—just as the folks back home in England and France are taking care of the smokers for Tommy and Poilu.

It isn't much to do—considering. A dollar or a quarter from you that gives a little comfort to one of your own flesh and blood doesn't stack up to much alongside the fact that the very man you are befriending may have to give up his life.

But it's a regular thing to do—and you "regular" men and women will do it.

This is the way. Fill in that coupon below, put it in an envelope together with all you can afford to give and drop it in the nearest box now addressed to BIG SANDY NEWS TOBACCO FUND.

Our paper has joined The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times in this most worthy undertaking.

Approved by the Secretaries of War and Navy, the management of this fund buys its tobacco at cost—every contribution of 25 cents means 45 to 50 cents' worth of tobacco for the man out there. No one profits but the fighting man—rents, postage, advertising are all contributed and the soldier who gets your tobacco will send you a postal telling how much it meant to him.

There's no argument here. Just put your name on that blank line and pass along the smokes.

The roof is the last to go on your building; but the selection of an efficient and economical roof is of first importance. If you will use on your building you will get the most efficient roof, and will cut down the cost of the roof materially.

CERTAIN-TEED Roofing is economical to buy, inexpensive to lay, and it costs practically nothing to maintain. It is weathertight, fire retardant, clean, sanitary, and gives the utmost roofing service over a period of years. CERTAIN-TEED is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply).

The quality and merit of CERTAIN-TEED have made it the preferable type of roofing for office buildings, hotels, factories, stores, warehouses, garages, farm buildings, etc. If you are building it will be to your interest to investigate CERTAIN-TEED.

There are many roll roofings, but only one CERTAIN-TEED. As it costs no more to lay a CERTAIN-TEED Roof than it does to lay a poor roof, it will pay to get the best, and save on renewals and upkeep. You can't tell the quality of roll roofing by its appearance, or by feeling of it; your only safety is in the label. Be sure it is CERTAIN-TEED.

Certain-teed Slate-Surfaced Asphalt Shingles are supplanting wood and slate shingles for residences. They cost less, are just as good looking, wear better, won't fall off, buckle or split. They are fire retardant, and do not have to be painted or stained.

Certain-teed Paints and Varnishes are made of the best quality materials and mixed by modern machinery to insure uniformity. Made for all uses and in all colors and sizes. Any dealer can get them for you. With paint and varnish, as with roof, the name CERTAIN-TEED is a guarantee of quality and satisfaction.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Thanksgiving day means much in the larger sense and it were well for the country if we added to our present happy domestic and churchly customs of observing it by some distinctly public ceremonial that would associate more directly our well being with the thought of the nation's work and mission.

.....

This is the harvest time for thanks. True there have been trials, calamities in some places homes destroyed, losses and sorrows, but taking the country over our blessings have been very many and far outnumbered the dark appalling things of life. In spite of many evils there has been as much of true sympathy, of genuine benevolence, of a cordial spirit of brotherly love and good fellowship, we can keep our thanksgiving in the spirit of the scriptural admonition, "Be ye also thankful."

.....

"It cannot be that earth is man's only abiding place. It cannot be that our life is a bubble cast up by the ocean of eternity to float a moment upon its waves and sink into nothingness. Else why is it the high and glorious aspirations which leap like angels from the temple of our hearts are forever wandering unsatisfied? Why is it the rainbow and cloud come over us with a beauty that pass off and leave us to muse of their loveliness? Why is it that the stars which hold their festival around the midnight throne are set above the grasp of our limited faculties forever mocking us with their unapproachable glory? And finally, why is it that the bright forms of human beauty are presented to our view and taken from us, leaving the thousand streams of our affections to flow back in an Alpine torrent upon our hearts? We are born for higher destiny than that of earth. There is a realm where the rainbow never fades, where the stars will be spread out before us like the islands that slumber on the ocean and where the beautiful beings which pass before us like shadows will stay forever in our presence. In these beautiful thoughts we can all find much to be thankful for, even if a vacant chair is in our home and the dark side of life seems turned towards us. They will place a silver lining back of any cloud. As a matter of fact we all have much to be thankful for."

.....

The pious, hard-driven, worn-out but thankful Puritans who sat down at their tables one November, a few centuries ago and made the first Thanksgiving Day, never knew to what lengths they were to drive the ingenuity of their poor descendants. But it wasn't their fault after all that the preparer of the Thanksgiving feast today has to attend just as much to the turkey surroundings as to the turkey itself. It was good enough for them to have a well stocked larder from which could come the turkey, the celery, the pumpkin pie, the cranberries and all the other goodies which history puts down to their credit. Even the comparatively recent New Englanders were content with all these as long as they looked tempting and tasted good. But today, even the important fowl itself is hardly more important than the ribbons, the candies, the favors, the adornments of all kinds which must appear on the Thanksgiving table.

The first recorded instance of anything in the nature of thanksgiving in the history of our country is the following entry in an old Bible belonging to one of the first pilgrims: "Sonne born to Susanna White, December 19, 1620, at six o'clock morning. Next day we meet for prayer and thanksgiving." This, however, is not generally accepted as the first observance of the nature since it hardly partook of the character of a general thanksgiving. But fifteen months after the pilgrims sailed from Holland they held a harvest festival which lasted a week. This is generally spoken of as the first Thanksgiving in New England, but it was not a day set apart by the governor, nor was it attended by any religious observance.

It is fortunate the world cannot discern the hidden things of the heart. There we can store our grief to ponder over it in our leisure and give to the world only the smile a beneficent Providence may impart to our souls and that will strengthen us to sing a hymn of thanksgiving. While sorrow may reign within, yet may peace and hope and confiding trust surround every reader of this column. Heaven bless you all this Thanksgiving day.

The First Thanksgiving

The first fixed and official day of Thanksgiving was held in the year 1666. In the old public records of the court of Connecticut we find the following order which the court issued on October 12, 1665 appointing a day of general thanksgiving.

"This court doth appoint a solemn day of Thanksgiving to be kept throughout this colony on the last Wednesday of November, to return praise to God for His great mercy to us in the continuation of our liberties and privileges both civil and ecclesiastical, and for our peace and preventing these troubles that we feared by foreign enemies and for the blessings in the fruits of the earth and the general health of the plantations."

It will be noted that the appointed day was Wednesday instead of Thursday, as we now celebrate. The spelling is odd in many cases.

After holding its annual convention for thirty-five years in November, the American Federation of Labor voted to hold its convention hereafter in June.

On the naval side of the war there is an interesting development in the North Sea where British light forces operating in Heligoland Bight encountered and engaged German light cruisers Saturday morning. The British Admiralty reported in an early statement that the Germans made off at high speed with the British vessels in pursuit.

Pacifist manifestations have again broken out in Zurich, Switzerland, according to a dispatch to Paris, and in clashes between a crowd of 2,000 persons and the police four persons were killed. The crowd stormed the prison where persons who had been arrested in previous riots were confined.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

SATURDAY

The meeting of the American Federation of Labor was again devoted to oratory yesterday. An appeal was made from the farm for closer co-operation with other branches of the nation's industries, and reports from British labor conventions were of confidence in the war. Two resolutions to be offered dealing with conditions of war plants are causing concern. One urges that recognition of the union be sought of the Bethlehem Steel company and the United States Steel corporation while the other charges that the agreement for a basic eight-hour day on Government contracts is being violated and urges an investigation.

A party of American hunters on an island in the Rio Grande, United States territory, were fired upon by Mexican soldiers yesterday. One was wounded and in the fighting that followed another was killed. An American patrol dispersed the Mexicans. Francisco Villa, following the battle of Parral in August, 1916 made a 3,000-mile trip to confer with revolutionary chiefs, according to an officer of his general staff, thus explaining his disappearance following the fight. He said Villa had entirely recovered from all his wounds.

Closer co-ordination of the Government's war demands with the country's industrial facilities will be sought by the Council of National Defense in the creation of a Bureau of Manufacturing Resources. Extensive plans are being made to guard against economic unsettlement in calling on American business men and industries.

Citizens of Minnesota and the whole Northwest voiced their loyalty to the United States in the war at a meeting at St. Paul yesterday. A message from President Wilson said that the nation looked to the Northwest for steadiness of purpose in prosecuting the war. Utterances of Senator La Follette were sharply criticized.

Predictions that enemy submarines will soon make their appearance off American ports, and that the submarine will be found to be the best antidote for the submarine, were made by speakers who addressed the convention of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers in New York.

Frank A. Vanderlip, testifying before the Interstate Commerce Commission, declared increased freight rates is not the solution, but radical action must be taken to remedy the railroad financial situation; either the Government must acquire ownership or the confidence of the people restored.

Henry Ford joined the staff of the Shipping Board yesterday to lend his talent for standardization of production in speeding up the building of a merchant fleet. He already had begun to turn over to the Government the facilities of his plant at Detroit for the manufacture of war materials.

The practice of retailers in making price advances far in excess of war taxes and making the taxes the excuse is being investigated by the Internal Revenue Bureau with a view to determining whether these practices can be stopped by legal means.

A new French Cabinet has been formed under the leadership of Georges Clemenceau one of France's most virile statesmen. M. Clemenceau in addition to his post as Premier has assumed the portfolio of Minister of War.

SUNDAY

Twelve men including five members of the naval armed guard, who left in the second officer's boat when the American steamer Rochester was torpedoed in the war zone November 2, have been given up for lost by the Navy Department. Vice Admiral Sims cabled that no trace of the boat had been found. He also advised the department that Ernest H. Gragg, seaman and member of the guard, and three members of the Rochester's crew died from exposure in another boat. One member of the crew was lost overboard, making the total casualties nineteen, including Second Engineer Sandau and an officer named Anderson, previously reported killed by the explosion of the torpedo.

In the sector of the French front held by the American troops there has been increased activity by the artillery, incidental to which there have been additions to the American casualty list, some of which occurred when a German shell hit an American gun. The American batteries have been energetic in their reply, giving the Germans better than they sent, in the opinion of observers.

In Palestine the British forces which recently have made so spectacular an advance up the Mediterranean coast to the neighborhood of Jaffa are still moving forward, but apparently feeling the way with some caution. The Turks are giving signs of making a stand a few miles north of Jaffa where they are reported attempting to prepare an entrenched position.

Ambassador Francis sends word from Petrograd that the Bolsheviks forces slaughtered cadets and women during the fight in the streets of Petrograd when Kerensky's officers deserted him and he fled from the capital in the disguise of a sailor. Surprise is evinced that the officers of the Bolshevik forces are men of noble parentage.

Arbitrary limitation of coal shipments to industries regarded as non-essential, to save fuel and rail transportation will be undertaken only as a last resort, it was announced yesterday by Fuel Administrator Garfield.

Various reasons are being given by brokers for the unusual movement of Liberty Loan bonds on the Stock Exchange yesterday: the 4s declining to the new low record of 88.18, while the 3 1/2s advanced over yesterday's quotations.

The Italians heroically holding back the Teuton invaders are slowly hemming in the German-Austrian forces and report that 1,000 of the enemy were taken prisoners.

SUBMARINES NOW HAVE HARD TIME

Activity of Destroyer Convoys Is Producing Most Satisfactory Results.

S MOST EFFECTIVE WEAPON

Diaries Taken From Captured U-Boat Commanders Furnish Documentary Evidence of Effectiveness of Destroyer's Perfect Convoy Work.

Base of the American Flotilla in British Waters.—Diaries taken from captured U-boat commanders furnish documentary evidence that the destroyer is the most effective of present weapons against the submarine. "Avoided destroyer" is the oft-repeated entry. In fact, these logs show conclusively that the submarines are having a hard time of it.

The result of the destroyer activity during the last four weeks has been not only a decrease in casualties of merchant ships but also a still more satisfactory increase in the number of submarines sunk.

Convoys as an Offensive.—The conveying of merchantmen has now reached a stage almost of perfection, after many months' work in training both the officers of merchant ships and the personnel of the patrol flotillas. While systematic conveying was undertaken primarily as a defensive measure, it has now developed that conveying is at the same time the best offensive measure yet devised against the U-boat.

The offensive side of conveying may best be shown by an illustration: When a submarine tries to torpedo a convoyed ship—as submarines are now compelled to do owing to the infrequency of unconvoyed shipping—there is always a destroyer on the scene, and the chances of the destroyer's "getting" that particular submarine are correspondingly increased. The wake of a torpedo is generally seen by the destroyer's lookouts, and it gives a good line on the direction where the submarine is lying. The destroyer immediately steers a course full speed in the line shown by the wake of the torpedo and drops repeated depth charges along this course.

In a considerable proportion of cases this proves effective, for these depth charges cause serious commotion over a considerable radius.

Surface Signs May Be Missing.—The correspondent was told of three cases in the last fortnight in which submarines were thus destroyed. In many instances, no doubt, submarines are destroyed without any visible indication above the water of their loss. Still others are badly crippled, as in the case of the damaged German U-boat which was recently interned in Spain.

Another submarine which will never return to Germany was sunk under peculiar circumstances a short time ago. This U-boat torpedoed a ship bound from the United States. It is extremely unwise and unsafe to fire at such close range, but the U-boats must take their targets as they get them these days. The torpedoed ship was loaded with a cargo of heavy war material and the explosion was so forcible that it blew a large piece of heavy material through the deck of the ship and dropped it on the submarine as the latter was submerging. The hull of the submarine was crushed like an eggshell and she sank with all on board.

Sneeze Breaks Glasses.—Rochester, N. Y.—Dr. D. J. Corrigan of Webster is in St. Mary's hospital, where efforts are being made to save the sight of one of his eyes. He was returning home from Fairport early in the night when, in sneezing, his face came in contact with the steering wheel of the automobile he was driving. His eyeglasses were broken and a piece of glass entered the eyeball.

ORDNANCE NEEDS MEN

Many Posts Open to Americans in That Service.

Chief Officer Announces That Opportunities for Technical Men With Unit in France Are Good.

Paris.—The ordnance department of the United States army in France wishes to correct an erroneous impression prevailing—that, by reason of being a particularly desirable branch of the service, it already has enlisted its full quota. On the contrary, there are openings in every class, from private to the highest ranking noncommissioned officer.

Enlistments are required to fill the positions of clerks, stenographers, typists and general office help, both at headquarters and the various depots throughout France. Many armors and carpenters are also needed, and a prompt warrant for a grade commensurate with ability displayed is assured.

An especially attractive opportunity is presented to technical men and graduates of mechanical schools. The ordnance department offers to such men a chance to specialize along the lines of their individual training. Promotions to the grade of commissioned officer are made on the merits of the work done, and many enlisted men have won this reward solely upon the grounds of the ability and training they possessed.

Enlistments will be accomplished in the usual manner and under the military rules and regulations observed by the recruiting offices in the United States.

Men who are eligible and desirous of enlisting should make application at once, writing direct to the chief ordnance officer, American expeditionary forces, France, who will make all arrangements and notify the applicants accordingly.

TOTES GUN AT FUNERAL

About two hundred priests, Sinn Fein M. P.'s, the Countess Markievicz and thousands of young men and young girls, many of whom were in costume, attended the funeral of Thom Ashe, the Sinn Fein leader who died following a hunger strike, who was buried at Glasnevin cemetery in Dublin. The picture shows Countess Markievicz, prominent Irish chieftainess, carrying revolver. She marched in the cortege attired in a costume of green.

NURSES DOING THEIR PART

Two Thousand Are Now Engaged in Active Nursing Service—Thousands Await Orders.

Washington.—This is how the trained nurses of the United States are doing their part of the war work. The figures are furnished by Miss Jane A. Delano, Chairman of the Red Cross nursing committee.

More than 2,000 registered Red Cross nurses are now engaged in active nursing service.

Two thousand more are teaching and training classes for work. Nine thousand others are enrolled and are waiting orders to take up their part of the nation's burden.

One thousand more, every month, are registering and volunteering to work whenever needed.

Over in France these Red Cross nurses stand only a little lower than the saints in the eyes of the sufferers. Maj. Grayson M. P. Murphy, Red Cross commissioner for France, the other day cabled these words:

"One American nurse has been in charge of 120 beds for sick children for eight months, and the results with meager equipment have been marvelous."

NEGROES WIN HONORS

Somalis Get 264 Citations for Bravery in Battle.

Proud Tribesmen Prove Efficient Fighters, But Never Resort to Savagery.

French Point.—Two hundred and sixty-four personal citations for bravery have been won by the negro soldiers of a single Somalis battalion since it landed in France in June, 1916. Of these citations 190 were gained in the fierce battles of the Aisne and the remainder about Verdun.

The Somalis, many of whom were recruited in British Somaliland, are independent and find the discipline of an organized army severe. Their French officers, however, are accustomed to deal with these freedom loving tribesmen, and by appealing to their pride of race and their self-respect obtain their devoted obedience to such an extent that they rapidly become excellent soldiers. These men learn to handle modern infantry weapons quickly and furnish many specialists in the grenade throwing, rifle and machine gun sections of French regiments, for the men are of high intelligence and are full of natural initiative—valuable adjuncts in these branches of fighting—while at hand grenade throwing they are second to none.

Meticulously clean of habit, the Somalis, who are strict Mahometans, never touch alcohol. In fact, they look on any man given to intoxication with the greatest disdain. They are self-sacrificing to a degree, as was evidenced during their attack on La Bodelle, when they had to clear out the shelters in a trench which they had just captured, and which were still full of Germans who had taken refuge there. One of their European sergeants was about to enter a dugout known to be full of armed enemies, when he was pushed aside by a Somali private with the exclamation, "Let me go first! You are married."

A widely prevalent fallacy has charged the negroes with savagery against their captives. Their officers say this charge has been disproved time and again after fights at Verdun, in Champagne and north of the Aisne.

BARON VON STEUBEN FRENCHMAN, IS CLAIM

Indianapolis, Ind.—That Baron "von" Steuben of revolutionary war fame was properly named Baron "de" Steuben and was a Frenchman and not a Prussian, is the claim of A. B. Gardiner, secretary general of the Society of Cincinnati, in a statement made public here.

Baron "de" Steuben was of German birth, but renounced Prussia and owed allegiance to France when he came to America to help the revolutionary cause, according to Gardiner. He asserts that Steuben expatriated himself after making a glorious record in the seven years war, but says the full reason for his expatriating himself probably will never be known.

"TANK" BRINGS IN PRISONER

Mires Down Between the Battle Lines on French Front, but Takes Wandering German.

London.—This is the way a British tank crew took a prisoner. "Our tank mired down in the mud between the lines," said the lieutenant, "and we skipped out into a nearby abandoned trench. We saw a Fritz wandering around all alone, apparently dazed, and yelled to him to come in. There was such a row of the guns he couldn't hear so one of the men went out to bring him in out of danger. He was in an awful state—trembling all over—but we gave him some cigarettes and he buckled up."

CUT OFF HAIR AS SHE SLEPT

Story of Seventeen-Year-Old Girl Confuses Detectives of Brooklyn Police Department.

New York.—Detectives of the Sixth branch bureau are confused by the case of Miss Anita Brown, seventeen years old, 1014 Fortieth street, Brooklyn, who told a story of a person entering her room at night and cutting 18 inches from the end of her long black hair. The hair was found lying on her pillow. The doors of the house had been bolted and her parents were certain that no one escaped through the basement. The girl said she did not see anyone in the room.

HOW GERMAN SAYS "TANK"

"S chutzengrabenverrichtungautomobile" Is Fritz' Word for English Monster.

Washington.—Thirty-five letters are required to spell one word which, in German, is the equivalent of the four-letter English "tank" or land battleship, which has worked such havoc in the present war. The German word, as it appears in official dispatches received here, is "schutzengrabenverrichtungautomobile," which, freely translated, is "a machine for suppressing shooting trenches."

UNCLE SAM LANDLORD

May Have to Build Homes for War Workers.

Great Influx of Laborers at "War-Bride" Cities Puts Living Space at a Premium.

Washington.—With thousands of workmen crowding into the "war-bride" cities of the nation, Uncle Sam faces the proposition of becoming a landlord or having his important war work crippled. The crowded conditions in many industrial centers already are hampering the work of munitions manufacture, especially with additional plants being built to employ more workmen.

The great demand for laborers in many sections has been followed by the demand for houses. Companies have built houses for their own workmen, and real estate men and builders have done their best to relieve the situation. However, the onward sweep of workmen has defied all efforts toward proper housing.

The use of beds in eight-hour shifts has been resorted to in such cities as Yonkstown, O.; Erie, Pa.; Bridgeport, Conn.; Chester, Pa.; Newport News, Va., and many others. All of these cities were crowded even before the United States entered the war. In Erie 45 munition workers procured room and board in one five-room house, with cots in every room and in the cellar and attic. Conditions in all of these cities are becoming worse each day. One shipbuilder procured 200 badly-needed workers and lost them the next day because he could find no place for them to sleep.

A CAMOUFLAGE ARTIST

Here is a soldier who makes himself look like a wire screen so that the enemy will think he is nothing but wire. Some camouflage. The French polli who is seen here has succeeded in weaving about himself a wire entanglement and after completing the job is at work putting together a deadly grenade in a trench the French had taken from the Germans.

MOVES HOUSE 1,850 MILES

Los Angeles Family Goes to Edmonton, Can., and Takes Home "With Them."

Los Angeles.—It is not an uncommon sight to encounter a house upon rollers in the middle of a street and in the process of being transported to a new location some distance away, but it is seldom that a house is taken to pieces, the parts transported more than 1,800 miles, and once more put together again. This is exactly what has happened, however, with the residence of J. E. Storer of this city. The Storer family recently decided to make its home hereafter in Edmonton, Canada, and for some reason, not generally known to the public, they took their house with them. A corps of workmen was engaged, the house taken down piece by piece, each carefully marked and done up in neat bundles and loaded upon a steamship for transportation to Vancouver, and thence by rail to Edmonton. It will not be long, therefore, until an American frame house, built of American lumber from floor to shingles, appears in a Canadian city as the residence of the Storer family.

Higher Pay in Business Pursuits Causes Shortage of Teachers in Wyoming.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Score another one for Mrs! School authorities in Wyoming say 23 rural schools are closed in the state because teachers cannot be secured. More financial reward in the business pursuits connected with the war are taking many women and men teachers away from their profession, according to the state superintendent of instruction.

The atrocities being committed by the German soldiers on women and children are more horrible than those of the most savage people the world has ever known.

The U. S. government clothes, feeds, drills and arms her soldiers. The Y. M. C. A. comforts entertainers, elevates, cheers and keeps them clean physically, morally and spiritually. The money to do this must come entirely through contributions. Who could refuse such an opportunity to help?

When our young men pledge their lives to their country they have made the greatest sacrifice possible for a human being to make. Certainly they are entitled to the best care and keeping that can be provided. The Y. M. C. A. does this from the day the boys enter camp and continuously serves them till they return home or lose their lives, as the case may be. The Red Cross also is doing a great work not attempted by any other organization. Never miss a chance to give money to either. There is no graft. The work is carried on by some of the noblest and most self-sacrificing people in the world.

EX-PRESIDENT TAFT.

In a speech a few days ago ex-President Wm. H. Taft made another of his vigorous and patriotic speeches.

Cheers and fervent applause met the former President all through his speech and particularly when he said, with deep feeling:

"We are neither Republicans nor Democrats now. We are Americans and we are firmly behind the President!"

He continued:
"By his desire to avoid conflict and his great patience, Mr. Wilson proved conclusively he was forced into war because honor and duty required it. There was nothing else for us to do. The suggestion that we should not have gone to war ignores our honor, our prestige, our usefulness and the spirit shown in the revolutionary and in the Civil War."

Y. M. C. A. HELPS WIN WAR.

The "movie" has not been allowed to escape service, even service at the front, according to reports just received in this country from Gen. Petain, directing French efforts on the Western front. Along with other expedients adopted for the entertainment of the men the moving picture has been employed by the Y. M. C. A. working units among the French soldiers. The whole question of morale, according to Gen. Petain and other leaders on the Western line is contentment. If you can keep a soldier, or ten thousand soldiers, contented, say they the question of morale will not arise. It is just that feature that has stimulated the Y. M. C. A., both American and British, to see to it that no opportunity for entertaining the soldiers at the front is allowed to pass unimproved.

It is in the pursuit of this policy that the "movie" in France has been virtually commandeered by the Y. M. C. A. The results have more than repaid the efforts necessary for proper production under the handicaps of field life, says Gen. Petain. "We have been long enough in this war," says the French leader, "to know that one of the big problems is the proper disposition of the men when they are taken off the firing line, and put down behind the lines, idle and weary. Our failure to solve that problem cost us a dear price in the first months of the war. Many times we were in the neighborhood of villages which provided entertainment of the most dangerous and revolting kind. It was in an effort to substitute something normal and healthy for these damaging possibilities, that we appealed to the Y. M. C. A., and it was the prompt answer to that appeal which has saved the morale of the fighting forces a thousand times when in all conscience an impairment of that morale might have been pardoned."

The "movie" was set up in the midst of the soldiers' camps, along with other means of diversion, instruction, and general social and helpful work. The result has been an appeal from more than one commander on the French front for more and still more Y. M. C. A. working units. Gen. Petain himself has asked the American Y. M. C. A. for a thousand additional Red Triangle huts. Similar appeals have come from Italy and Russia.

Film manufacturers have cooperated with the Y. M. C. A. to the extent of furnishing films free for use among the soldiers in France. Thus, an expensive feature of the program has been eliminated, and the Y. M. C. A. officials in America are bending every effort to take advantage of the opportunity to make a real and practical contribution to the fighting strength of the armies on the Western front. That enormous sums will be necessary, it is recognized. The appeals have been so numerous, so extensive and so insistent that in the opinion of the Association leaders, only the most enormous outlay of money and effort can provide a response in any measure proportionate or adequate. Those funds totaling $25,000,000 it is asking the American people to contribute to protect the boys and to help win the war.

DEATH OF MRS. MANN.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mann was born October 4, 1860, died October 28, 1917, aged fifty-seven years. She was married to J. J. Mann of Boston Mass., thirty-eight years ago. Eleven children were born to this union. Five had preceded mother to the great beyond, six are left to mourn the loss of their dear mother. They are Mrs. Florence Queen, of Elders, W. Va.; Mrs. James Frasier and Cecil married; John, Addie and Edgar at home.

Mr. Mann preceded his wife to the glory land five years ago.

She was a patient sufferer of cancer for more than a year before her death. She realized no human power could stay the hand of death and expressed her willingness to pass from this land of trials and tribulations at the Master's will.

She was a highly respected woman, a devoted wife and mother. She was a great home lover, always ministering to the needs of her family. She will be greatly missed in her vicinity. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Robt. Cassiday and was largely attended by sorrowing friends.

Interment in the family burial ground near the old home. A FRIEND.

OH! MY BACK

THE EXPRESSION OF MANY A KIDNEY SUFFERER IN LOUISIANA.

A stubborn backache is cause to suspect kidney trouble. When the kidneys are inflamed and swollen, stooping brings a sharp twinge in the small of the back, that almost takes the breath away. Doan's Kidney Pills revive sluggish kidneys—relieve aching backs. Here's Louisa proof:

Mrs. R. A. Wilson, Rice Ave., Louisiana, says: "My back was weak and sore and it hurt me to stoop. A dull ache across the small of my back made me miserable. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills, I felt all right and my back was strong. I have not been bothered since." Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Wilson had. Foster-McIlburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

LOCHINVAR FROM WEST

CLAIMS KENTUCKY GIRL

H. Leslie Parker, known from the mountain ranges and plains of Wyoming to the man-made gulch of Wall street as "The King of Big Muddy," is in New York this week on an important mission. The purpose of Mr. Parker's flying trip to the East is two-fold—the putting of his house in order that he may for a time shift somewhat the responsibility of the management of his Wyoming oil producing properties, valued at $500,000 and the replenishing of an elaborate wardrobe.

Mr. Parker is on his way to Catlettsburg, Ky., where he will marry Miss Tennyson Dawn Flanery a daughter of W. H. Flanery, Federal tax appraiser for the Louisville district and a former Kentucky jurist. The wedding will be solemnized at the beautiful Flanery home in Catlettsburg during Thanksgiving week. At the same time Miss Flanery's sister, Miss Evelyn Merle Flanery, and Davis M. Howerton, Assistant Attorney General of Kentucky, will be married.

Following the ceremony both couples will leave for New York City, where Mr. Parker has arranged quarters at the Vanderbilt and then he, with his bride will go for a long tour with Honolulu and Tokio as way points.

The life of Mr. Parker reads like purest fiction. Three years ago he was a penniless prospector. Today, at 27 years, he is one of the country's richest men. It was when he was a penniless prospector he met his future bride. He was one of many who fell under the charm of the Kentucky beauty when she visited Casper, Wyo., where he was then seeking his Ultima Thule. But with more prosperous and successful men of affairs as rivals, the future multi-millionaire more than held his own.

Like most prospectors of the West whether his quest be for gold, silver or oil, Mr. Parker was a dreamer. Unlike most other prospectors he was gifted with vision, supplemented by an excellent working knowledge of geological conditions of his field of research. He read widely and classified his reading into a valuable fund of data that has since stood him in good stead.

Mr. Parker has not always been a prospector or millionaire. He was a son of a manufacturer of wood pulp. While a student at McGill University his father's plant was destroyed by fire. The loss was complete and the disaster ended his school career when he was 18 years old. He began drifting and followed the lure of the Golden West which brought him up at Casper, Wyo. At this point he went to work for an asbestos plant. Within a short time he had won his way to the superintendency of the enterprise. Differences arose as to management of the concern and he found himself out of employment.

Later, while a member of the Wyoming Club at Casper, he was made steward and paid a salary of $75 a month. With this revenue he began acquiring leases on oil-bearing properties that were to make him a modern Midas. He secured control of 20,000 acres of land in this manner. He began developing operations in April, 1914, and during the following August brought in his first producing well.

It was at this period of his affairs that Mr. Parker met Miss Flanery. From the first he realized his love. At the same time he realized his great handicap. Without funds and burdened with heavy obligations that might crumble at any time and carry him in the wreckage of gigantic failure, but with the true Westerner's spirit of resourceful self reliance he continued to urge his suit.

Miss Flanery was a girl of rare insight. She had the faculty of unerringly measuring men to a certain standard she had set for them. Parker came up to that standard. Beneath the modest exterior of her modest suitor the Kentucky girl sensed something of his terrific dynamic force. She was also a girl in whose soul the spirit of romance lived. She listened to his dreams of future wealth and opportunity, and, listening, believed. With him the realization of success meant the securing of all the world's comforts and pleasures to lay at the feet of his loved one. To her it meant simply the bringing about of her heart's dearest desire, and, loving this Western adventurer, she trusted him and pledged her troth.

Her penniless suitor did not fail her. From the time he brought in his first producing well fortune showered her kindest gifts upon him. Well after well followed, and a golden stream poured into his hands. That was three years ago. Now, still a young man, this successful Westerner is on his way to Kentucky, where he will claim the hand of the girl of his heart and dreams. The Kentucky girl who knew, believed and trusted in him on the faraway Wyoming plains.

TUESDAY.

The United States Embassy at Petrograd asked for a special train to take 200 Americans to Harbin. The Bolsheviks are in complete control in Petrograd and the railway and telegraph workers have called a general strike in protest at Lenin's rule. Sebastopol arsenal is reported to have gone over to the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates and the sailors have taken the oath of allegiance. The whereabouts of Kerensky seems to be still unknown by Petrograd.

Registration of women in Kentucky who are qualified to render service to the Government during the war began Monday morning under the auspices of the Woman's Committee, Council of National Defense for Kentucky, who will confine their appeal first to business and professional women. The registrator will continue throughout the week.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Its rich, uniform cod liver oil gets into their blood and gives them vim, snap and zest. It creates strength to resist school sicknesses, overcome pinched faces, sallow complexions and dull eyes.

High authorities have established again and again that cod liver oil promotes growth and energizes the body and brain.

The imported Norwegian cod liver oil always used in Scott's Emulsion is now refined in our own American laboratories which guarantees it free from impurities.

News and drastic regulations govern ing the movement of all Germans in the United States were announced yes terday in a proclamation by President Wilson. The order entirely prohibits travel by water whether in public or private boats and also requires all Ger mans to register and report periodically to whatever authority is designated by the Attorney General. The District of Columbia and the Canal Zone are for bidden as residences and no German may approach any water front, rail road terminals, wharves storage houses or such other places as the Attorney

General may name closer than 1000 yards. Officials emphasize that law abiding Germans will be annoyed as little as possible. Penalty for violation of the order is interment for the per

HOSPITALS MOVED TO ESCAPE FLYERS

Attacks by Germans Cause Closing of Many Institutions in France.

2 KILLED IN HARVARD UNIT

Kenneth Gaston Tells of Terror and Ruin Brought on by the Raiders—Exciting Experiences Among Red Cross Workers.

New York.—During the recent fighting on the western front the Red Cross has been experiencing considerable difficulty in carrying on its work immediately behind the lines because of the attacks by German airmen on the hospitals, according to a letter from Kenneth Gaston, son of Mrs. L. P. Gaston of Somerville, N. J., who is a member of the Harvard unit. In the immediate neighborhood where they are working, he said, it was necessary to close five hospitals within a week and they were finally driven to establish themselves in the woods. A letter from Mr. Gaston to his mother follows:

"As you see, we have moved. We had to. The night after I last wrote you our hospital was raided fiercely. For three hours aviators were over us all the time, shooting or dropping bombs. Two surgeons were killed and five more were wounded, two of the big tents riddled, some small tents blown up, big holes put in the roads—altogether it was a complete job.

"It ended all usefulness of the village, for next day orders came to evacuate the entire village, hospitals, depots, barracks, and all. We and the brancardiers had to stay on two nights more while the hospital was taken down and carted away. We didn't relish these nights much.

"The first night after supper everybody trailed out into the fields carrying their blankets. Some slept under haystacks, some in trenches, a few went to a fort nearby and slept in the ammunition room 80 feet underground. By the time the big harvest moon rose there wasn't a sign of life.

Campaign Against Hospitals.
"The second night four of us stayed in the tent. I let my bed down on the ground and we built a barricade of timbers to keep off small éclats, then went to bed early and got to sleep before the visitors arrived. That night they made special visits to the two hospitals to which we evacuated our badly wounded of several nights before, and as a result one of them had to be closed. They seem to be carrying on a special campaign against hospitals, five in this immediate neighborhood have been closed within a week.

"We drove in convoy to our new quarters. As a convoy we are quite imposing, first the staff car, then 20 ambulances, an enormous truck with a kitchen trailer, a camion, a camionette, and the French staff car. We drove about 20 miles, almost parallel to the front, so that we are still about 15 kilometers from the lines, but we are in a big forest very well concealed. There is no shellfire at that distance in this sector, and the aviators have little chance to see anything.

"This aerial raiding business assumes big proportions. We passed through a town on our way here where 180 bombs had been dropped in one night.
"If they hit on soft ground they are comparatively harmless for they penetrate ten feet or more and blow out a hole like a well, straight up into the air.
"But the éclats of the bombs are small, rarely more than an inch or two long, while a big shell will burst into jagged pieces two and three feet long that will cut clean through a house. The dope is to pick out a spot in soft ground and get flat on the surface, then only a direct hit can get you, and there isn't a chance in a million of that.

Was Funny Sight.
"Last night the mechanic, Ed Anthony, and I were building an abrix in the woods, for they are always nice to have around, when suddenly three bombs went off just below us on the road. At the first one Ed dropped his pick and tore through the woods like a startled deer, hurdling trees and diving through bushes like a wild man. There was no place to run to so I crawled under a ledge and waited.

"A minute later three more went off, and then I heard a wild rush, and Ed came tearing back through the woods, all out of breath, but sprinting his hardest. He was so funny that I forgot all about the bombs—he wears mutton chop whiskers, loose knee pants with bare legs, and he had his tin hat crammed way down over his ears, and the expression on his face was that of a man who has given up all hope, but intends to fight desperately to the end.

"I laughed until I was weak. When he saw me he stopped, struggled for breath, swallowed a lump in his throat and said huskily, 'I think they're deparis, don't you?' As a matter of fact, they were neither bombs nor deparis, but some defective hand grenades that were unsafe for shipment and were purposely exploded by the munitions workers.

"Glad the Italians are proving something at last. These drives will give the German people food for thought during the winter—about all the food they'll get."

NURSES ARE NEEDED

Young Women Are Urged to Take Up Work.

Red Cross Wants Experienced Nurses Released for Service Behind the Lines.

Washington.—Fifteen thousand nurses have already been enrolled by the American Red Cross, many of whom have volunteered for war service, according to a statement made public at Red Cross headquarters. About two thousand have already been sent to Europe. It is estimated that the present registered force is sufficient to care for an army of a million and a half and approximately a thousand nurses are being added monthly.

"It is of the greatest importance that able and educated young women should be urged to enter the regular training schools and take the usual course in order to fit themselves fully for nursing," said Miss Jane A. Delano, chairman of the national committee on nursing service. "While our present needs are being met, the burden of the war will increase rapidly. It is highly desirable that the ablest, most experienced nurses should be released for service behind the lines, and a constant supply of younger nurses, thoroughly trained, will allow these older women to leave their posts in this country without danger to our own sick."

The national committee is also enrolling public health nurses with a view to protecting them from service as bedside nurses where their special training would not be fully utilized.

The Red Cross requirements for nurses have been somewhat modified in order that, if needed, thousands of additional nurses may be made eligible for enrollment with the American Red Cross and available for call should the necessity arise.

The principle change contemplated is to reduce the lower age limit for specially qualified nurses and to place on the eligible list training schools for nurses which are "recommended by state boards of registration," even though the schools have a daily average of somewhat less than the required fifty patients.

In order to increase further the available supply of nurses the schools for nurses giving a three-year course may be requested to advance the date of graduation of pupil-nurses, perhaps to the end of their second year of study, should the exigencies of war make such action seem desirable.

WOOD WANTS ARMY MARCH

General Asks Composers of Seven States to Submit Compositions in Contest.

Camp Funston, Kan.—An invitation to composers of music in the seven states from which members of the Eighty-ninth division of the National army was drawn—Missouri, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, New Mexico, Arizona and South Dakota—from which a march for the division may be selected has been issued by Maj. Gen. Wood, through his assistant chief of staff, Capt. H. S. Howland. The invitation states that marches which fail to secure first place probably will be adopted by the various regiments in the division as their regimental marches. Composers are asked to send compositions to C. H. Guthrie, Y. M. C. A. headquarters, Camp Funston.

HER EVERY-DAY BURDEN

Vacuum cleaners, self-starters, and perambulators have not as yet reached the Caucasus near the Persian border; while fireless cookers, gas and electricity are unknown quantities.

We smile when we think of the Indian squaw carrying her papoose in the little packet contrivance she suspends from her back.

If you think this is a punishment for being an Indian squaw what do you think of life in the Caucasus where the mother not only carries her baby in her arms but is compelled to carry the baby's cradle strapped to her back.

When baby is peevish or tired of nestling in mother's arms, mother removes the cradle from her back and gives the baby a rest. Nothing, according to the correspondent who made this photo is said about what the mother does when she grows tired.

But why worry about mother so long as baby is happy.

THE JADE FROG

By ISABEL FROST.

Diggs had not noticed it at first, although he stood nearer to it than anyone else in the room. He was so interested in renewing his acquaintance with Leonie Verney that all inanimate objects escaped his kin.

He had only seen her once before—at Haskell's studio, around Christmas time. But she was a girl then. Slender, corsetless with a graceful, curving body. Haskell had told him briefly of Miss Verney's career, and it had interested him immensely.

Her father was a Chinese missionary at Hangkow. He was killed during the Boxer uprising. Leonie was disguised as a Chinese child by her Christian nurse and hidden away in an old temple in the interior until the trouble was over. It was not until two years ago that she came to America.

Diggs was telling her of the Roman seats which he had just sent out to his garden at Greenwich, when suddenly he caught her looking past him intently at something on the mantelpiece. Glancing around, he saw the little jade frog. It was about two and a half inches long, and quite as wide, a puffy, arrogant frog, utterly unnatural and grotesque.

"What is it?" he asked, seeing that the girl really looked pale.

"I don't know exactly," she answered in a low voice. "It is all so strange and horrible. I wonder whom that frog belongs to."

"I'll ask Haskell," he said.

Haskell shook his head doubtfully when Diggs found him.

"You've got me, old man. I sublet these rooms when I got back from France, and that thing was here. It's Chinese, isn't it? There are some wonderful embroideries in that pearl inlaid cabinet in the corner. They probably all belong to Doctor Yoy, the former tenant."

He carried the information he had gleaned back to Leonie. She said little, but asked him to call a taxi for her, as she was leaving early.

"I can't explain tonight," she said, as they parted. "Come tomorrow at eleven and I'll tell you all I know."

The morning mail brought a brief letter from Haskell.

"Wire from Doctor Yoy announces arrival in Frisco Monday. He requests me to place the little jade frog in a safety deposit vault without telling anyone. Thought I'd let you know."

Diggs called him up on the telephone, asking him to wait until a copy of the inscription could be secured; then he got in touch over the wire with a certain civil engineer friend and college classmate who had spent some time in China. Wallace was perfectly willing to help him out, and though it made him a little late for his appointment with Leonie, he took the time to carry the frog down to Wallace's office. After about an hour's study the latter gave him the translation. It ran:

"Who so seeketh vengeance on his enemies shall ask the crystal ball for aid. Spirit of the sacred Hu Fwa, graciously list to the curses upon the foreign devils."

He carried the news to Leonie at once. She leaned forward eagerly, her hands tightly clasped.

"Oh, I was sure of it, last night," she said. "Mr. Diggs, you must help me. I know this doctor. He was a false friend of my father's. It was he who bore witness against him, and betrayed him into the hands of the Boxers. He has had me watched ever since I left China, but I never dreamed that the jade frog was in his possession."

He took the frog out of his pocket and set it on the table in front of them. Leonie leaned forward and looked at the little crystal ball. As she reached for it, her hand was unsteady, and it fell from her grasp to the floor with a crash. She gave a sharp cry of alarm, and knelt down among the fragments. Diggs was before her. The fall had loosened a secret spring in the pedestal. Inside its hollow there lay a folded sheet of rice paper with a hand-painted diagram on it, and small vertical lines of Chinese characters.

"I think the sacred Hu Fwa has given up his secret," said Diggs. "Let's call a taxi and run down to Wallace."

"No, no, I can read it myself," exclaimed Leonie, bending excitedly over the paper. After a moment she lifted her face. "Oh, this is too good to be true," she cried. "It tells how the treasures of the murdered Christians for hundreds of years past have been buried in the tombs under the temple. No wonder Doctor Yoy wanted the buried treasure to further the plans of the revolutionists."

"But how did it come in his possession?" asked Diggs quickly.

"Lao San was the only one who knew of the chest. He probably murdered her. Oh, if you only knew of the tragedies hidden in the gardens in old China. I can never thank you enough for helping me. If it hadn't been for you I would never have found it out. Just think what it means to me to be able to turn this treasure over, in my father's name, to the cause that he died for."

Diggs felt the last remnant of his New England caution swept away, as he looked at her radiant, upturned face. "Can you guess what this means to me?" he asked, huskily. "God bless the little jade frog."

Premier Lloyd George has successfully withstood the first serious attack on his administration in the debate on the formation of the Inter-Ally War Council and his Paris speech. Ex-Premier Asquith was spokesman for the opposition and criticized sharply the new plan for control of the war. Mr. Lloyd George, in replying went at length into the reasons for such action. As for his Paris speech, he said that he had delivered it with the deliberate intent of stirring up public opinion on the subject and that it had achieved this object.

Saving the Bread Crumbs

By Mary Parrish

(Copyright, by W. G. Chapman.)

"Yes, George, I think you're right. We must economize as to food." George beamed on his wife much pleased that she so readily fell in with his suggestion. But then they had been married only six months, and so far there had been no serious misunderstandings between them. The war, which had brought so much misery and tragedy into the world was now being felt on its remotest outskirts, affecting people of moderate means by the frightful rise in the cost of living. The government was urging as a patriotic measure the wealthy classes to reduce their menus. The poor needed no such incentive, their slim pocket-books drove them to the dire necessity even where a less amount would seem to mean a close approach to starvation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Steers belonged to neither the very wealthy nor the very poor class. Steers was drawing a good salary in a responsible position, they owned their own home, and might be said to be comfortably off. So it was quite from patriotic motives that they resolved to cut down the table expenses.

"But," observed his wife, Ida, drawing her brow in perplexity, "I must say I don't know just where to begin. I thought we lived pretty moderately anyhow."

"We might leave out meat for some meals," suggested George rather ruefully.

"We don't generally have it more than once a day anyway."

"No, but we might leave it out say two days in the week."

"Yes," assented Ida, "and I could learn to do some of those things with bread crumbs the papers talk so much about. I never have wasted bread, but I suppose I could do something with the crumbs."

"Mother Never Was an Extravagant Cook."

"I remember my mother used to make a bread pudding that was delicious, and she used to fry all sorts of things in crumbs," reflected George. "Well, I guess I could if I put my mind to it."

There was a tinge of annoyance in Ida's tone, and George hastened to say that he was quite sure she could. He departed for the office and Mrs. Steers set about revising the bill of fare. Her cook book did not seem to abound in recipes of an economical order, and she began searching through some papers she had laid aside for the new instructions for reducing the high cost of living.

The dinner that evening showed some signs of attempted reduction, but even though Steers might have felt the shortage he knew his wife was only trying to carry out his suggestion, and he said nothing. As time went on the bread crumbs combinations which frequently appeared seemed rather the most unsuccessful results of the economizing process. Apparently the "last straw" was laid upon the long suffering husband one evening when he attempted to eat a mixture posing as a pudding. For Ida saw that the dish had been set aside, and that hubby was pretending to have developed a sudden fondness for bread and butter.

"I thought," she said regretfully, "you liked bread pudding."

"Yes, I did. But that might have been because I was younger. One's taste changes. Then mother used to put a lot of raisins and all sorts of things in."

"Oh yes, no doubt. And by the time she had got through with the raisins, and the eggs, and the rich cream she had a pudding too expensive to make it any economy to save the crumbs," snapped Ida.

"Mother never was an extravagant cook. At least I've always heard others say so," answered George.

As a very large oak can grow from a very small acorn, so can a good-sized quarrel grow out of a slight misunderstanding. Mciner's cooking versus wife's resulted in a domestic cyclone. George had meant never to bring up that dangerous point, but had in a way been goaded to it. Ida had meant to be entirely reasonable at the outset, but the worries and vexations to which she had been subjected in her well-meant attempts to achieve economical results, and the evident failure of her efforts had "got on her nerves," and unexpected mines were exploded with dire results to the happiness of both.

"You'd better go home and get some of 'mother's bread pudding,'" retorted Ida. "As for me, I'm going to mother's. I'm tired of this."

True to her word, Ida packed a bag, and took the train for "mother's." George was not in the frame of mind to beg her not to go, and after her departure went to a restaurant and ordered a meal without the slightest regard for governmental instructions. He continued to eat at the restaurant, the toothsome menus in some slight degree making up for the absence of his wife. But even the brute man cannot be entirely satisfied with the delights of good feeding. The masculine heart and soul have some demands, no matter how slight, and George Steers had considerably more of the finer fiber than the coarse. The house was horribly lonely, and the first heat of resentment being over, and reason beginning to assert herself, Steers took himself to task, and debated as to the best course to take. He had not supposed Ida would remain away more than a few days, but when the time wore into a week, and then into nearly two, he did go to his mother, not for bread pudding, but to consult her as to the steps he would better take in the matter. The result of her advice was a letter from George to Ida begging her in a very affectionate way to come home. Days went by and no answer. Then George grew desperate, and determined to go after his wife.

His mother-in-law met him at the door. She met him pleasantly, and told him Ida was not at home. It was in vain that he tried to gain any information regarding the attitude of his wife toward him. Mrs. Hall preferred to remain neutral. However, she did not turn him out, but invited him to dine. He sat down to the table with Mrs. Hall, his mother-in-law alone, but he noticed a place was set for another. Just then Ida appeared in the doorway from the kitchen bearing the first course on a tray. She arranged it on the table without a word. But George could be quiet no longer.

"Ida!" he cried, jumping from his chair. "Won't you forgive me?"

"Now please don't spoil the dinner with a scene," she said quietly. "Just eat, and wait till afterwards."

George obediently followed directions. The dinner was delicious, and he enjoyed it.

"Mother showed me how to cook this dinner," she said. "Did you like it?"

"Like it!" he enthused. "It was wonderful. And the bread pudding was the best ever!"

"Your mother taught me how to make that. I've been learning a good many other lessons beside cooking," she added in a low voice.

"I've been learning, too," he cried. "Learning that I've been a fool, and I can't live without you!"

Mrs. Hall got up and went softly out of the room, leaving her daughter in her husband's arms.

Both had wise mothers.

HORSE MEAT DIET POPULAR

Demand in Cincinnati Increases Weekly—Indorsed by the City Health Officer.

Cincinnati.—Health Officer J. H. Landis, discussing horseflesh as food, says:

"Cincinnati's initial experiment in the use of horse meat has been a pronounced success. The only trouble has been a failure to meet the demand. Two horses were slaughtered the first week, four the second, and eighteen the third. In all about 14,000 pounds have been consumed.

"Like many other cities in the United States, Cincinnati has many persons who learned to eat horse meat before becoming residents of this country. They do not share the prejudice of Americans against this valuable food.

"In its ability to supply heat and energy and to repair waste horse meat is on a par with meat of other animals used for food purposes."

ASK PALAIS ROYAL FOR PLAY

Artists of Paris Make the Request on Behalf of French Children.

Paris.—A group of artists organized under the name of "Friends of Paris" has petitioned the undersecretary for fine arts to devote the gardens of the Palais Royal to children's entertainment.

They suggest that merry-go-rounds be installed and that Punch and Judy shows and moving pictures suitable for children be given there, and that the business establishments surrounding the historic square be devoted to the sale of toys and articles made by mutilated soldiers.

The Palais Royal arcades have lost a great deal of animation of the days when they were the center of the fashion and frolic of Paris. The dealers in jewels and other luxuries have nearly all now gone to the Rue de la Paix and the Avenue de l'Opera.

The Beautiful Gulf Coast.

If you would revel among the most beautiful of shade trees, the monarchs of the South, the Live Oaks, go to Ocean Springs, Mississippi. Drink from its Mineral Springs and enjoy the ozone from the stretch of shel road along the sand.

Live simply among its plain but hospitable small hotels or private boarding houses: you will never forget the view of the Gulf you have had, or the rejuvenating atmosphere that you have enjoyed during your stay.

Biloxi might be called the Riviera of the Gulf Coast. It was settled by Iberians in 1659. It was part of the Louisiana possessions and was the first colony planted by the French in the south.

Yes, it is true that you will find there the old civilization and the new. Truly, we may also say that it is one of the most restful, healthful and charming resorts on the North American continent.

We have found it most delightful just following the Christmas holidays in mid-winter: but it is also most agreeable in the summer time, as the breezes from the Gulf of Mexico fan the shore at some time of each day.

Many legends have been centered at Biloxi, which doubtless had their origin in the time of the Indian to later civilization. A grand old oak with gnarled and twisted branches and hanging moss, stands in the churchyard of the picturesque church of the Redeemer—it has been the basis of many a legend and a ruse.

How beautiful are those homes along the beach where nature has been undisturbed. Beyond the narrow streets of Old Biloxi one can exit again the shell road, pass the "home for guests" and the lighthouse and be a welcome guest at one or more of the beautiful private villas lined along the shell road. Several of these have their own private piers with boat-house or bathing-houses at the end of the pier, way out on the water. Boating, bathing and fishing are recreations that belong to the out-of-door life of Biloxi nearly all the year round.

Biloxi is not wholly dependent upon tourists. It has an all-the-year round population. A Tourist Club is sustained during the winter months from a colony largely of middle states northern people who center there yearly from mid-winter to early spring. It is an attractive adjunct to Biloxi during that time. Never has the winter seen more glorious sunsets or more beautiful moonlight. What more fascinating than the silvery sheen in the wake of a white sailboat as she silently glides along. Her hold may be filled with oysters which she may be carrying to be unloaded at some oyster house a mile or so around the bend of the bay, or it may be that with a scrimp from deeper waters she is laden. If you happen to be the next morning, where the boat is being unloaded you will find it a process worth seeing. Inside of a long building all activity, men, women and children are employed by the hundreds in opening the oyster shells. The oysters are first dropped into tubs of water and the last process is when they are placed in cases which are sealed and neatly labeled and then are ready for the market.

There are homes for the workers and their families who live near the plants or oyster factories. There is also a Settlement House not far away with beautiful trees about it with kindergarten and playgrounds for the children, who are thus cared for while their mothers are at work at the oyster houses. The season is short and consequently the earnings are for only a short time of the year.

Again and again from the cold rigid winters of the north we shall seek the shore of Beautiful Biloxi and perhaps now and then for a respite in the summer, also.

So when you make up your route for trips South henceforth, we advise you by all means to include Biloxi or Ocean Springs—Carlyle Porter.

These are two of the popular and attractive resorts on the beautiful Gulf Coast and reached by the modern steel passenger trains of the Relieved After Taking Two Bottles Of Cardui, Says Tennessee Lady.

Whitwell, Tenn.—Mrs. G. P. Cartwright, of this place, writes: "About four years ago the dizzy spells got so bad that when I would start to walk I would just pretty near fall. I wasn't past doing my work, but was very much run-down.

I told my husband I thought Cardui would help me, as a lady who lived next door to me had taken a great deal, and told me to try it. This was when we were living in Kentucky.

My husband got me a bottle and I took it according to directions. It helped me so much that he went back and got me another bottle. I got a whole lot better and just quit taking it. I got over the dizzy spells...I took no other medicine at that time nor since for this trouble. No, I've never regretted taking Cardui.

I felt just fine when I finished the second bottle."

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Have been built and actually delivered to retail buyers since August 1, 1916. These figures—320,877—represent the actual number of cars manufactured by us since August 1st, 1916, and delivered by our agents to retail buyers. This unusual fall and winter demand for Ford cars makes it necessary for us to confine the distribution of cars only to those agents who have orders for immediate delivery to retail customers, rather than to permit any agent to stock cars in anticipation of later spring sales. We are issuing this notice to intending buyers that they may protect themselves against delay or disappointment in securing FORD cars. If, therefore, you are planning to purchase a FORD car, we advise you to place your order and take delivery now.

IMMEDIATE ORDERS WILL HAVE PROMPT ATTENTION.

Delay in buying at this time may cause you to wait several months. Enter your order to-day for immediate delivery with our authorized FORD agent listed below and don't be disappointed later on.

Shooting Affray.

A shooting affray occurred at the home of a local Collins, three miles west of Paintsville about 5 o'clock Thursday morning, which resulted in two men being shot, one of them being seriously injured.

Wm. Little, candidate in the recent election for constable of this district, and his son, 16 years, had started for a fox hunt. On their way they stopped at Mr. Collins home, who was a renter of Mr. Little, to see him in regard to some rent corn. Mr. Collins was indicted in the Johnson circuit court for a serious offense and evidently thought Mr. Little and his son were there to arrest him. He immediately sprang from behind the bed where he was hidden, when the Littles entered the room he raised with his shot gun shooting Mr. Little through the two front fingers of the right hand and cutting his gun practically in two. They then clinched and during the wrestle Mr. Little's son, 16 years old shot Mr. Collins' right hand off just below the wrist, some of the shots lodging over the right eye. It is said that Mr. Collins injuries are serious.—Post.

Killed by Poisons

All scientists agree that poisonous products in the blood are eliminated by the kidneys and liver. The kidneys act as a kind of filter for these products. When the kidneys are changed or degenerated, by disease or old age, then these poisons are retained in the body. If we wish to prevent old age coming on too soon, or if we want to increase our chances for a long life, Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., says that you should drink plenty of water daily between meals to flush the kidneys. Then procure at your nearest drug store Anuric. This Anuric drives the uric acid out. Scientific men have learned that in gout, also rheumatism, poisonous uric acid crystals are deposited in or about the joints, in the muscles—where inflammation is set up.

If we wish to keep our kidneys in the best condition a diet of milk and vegetables, with only little meat once a day, is the most suitable. Drink plenty of pure water, take Anuric (double strength) three times a day for a month. Anuric is many times more potent than lithia.

Send Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., ten cents for trial package of anuric.

KETTLE ISLAND, Ky.—"I suffered for years with kidney and bladder troubles and took all kinds of medicines, but could not tell that it did me much good. About three years ago I had terrible sick spells which would last two or three days. Kidney secretion was high color. At last I procured a trial package of Dr. Pierce's Anuric. I then took five or six packages of the tablets and can truthfully say they did me more good than all the other medicines. I feel much improved in every way. I want sufferers from kidney troubles to try Anuric and learn for themselves its merits."—A. J. BAILEY.

SALYER GIVEN $8,000 VERDICT.

An interesting case was decided in Judge Halbert's court which has been before the courts of this section for some time. It was the case of John Salyer versus the C. & O. railway company in which the jury brought in a verdict for eight thousand dollars for the plaintiff.

This case has been tried three times. The first trial resulted in a hung jury, the second is a verdict of eighteen thousand dollars and the third which was concluded yesterday is a verdict of eight thousand dollars. We understand the case will again be taken to the court of appeals.

The verdict yesterday was quite a victory for the attorneys for the plaintiff which are John W. Woods and Arthur T. Bryson.—Ashland Independent.

MESSENGER GIRL CAUSES COMMENT IN FRANKFORT

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 17.—Frankfort has its first messenger girl. She is Miss Nell Spaulding. Her appearance upon the streets caused considerable comment. Miss Spaulding is employed by a local telegraph company that has found itself hard pressed at times to secure messenger boys. For some time a scarcity of messenger boys has been apparent in Frankfort. The reason for this scarcity is attributed to war conditions affording other employment.

LETCHER COUNTY

WHITESBURG, Ky., Nov. 21.—

(Spec.)—Charged with the murder of John Watson at Jenkins, this county, a week ago, John Griffin, formerly of West Virginia, was given a preliminary hearing before County Judge Henry T. Day Monday and was bound over to the grand jury. His bond was fixed at $1000, which he was unable to execute and was remanded to jail.

Griffin claims Watson came into his home and raised a disturbance, and when told to get out pulled a revolver and began shooting. It was then that Griffin shot him.

James H. Frazier, leading merchant and business man of Whitesburg, was held here last week for the assassination of William Banks on the streets of the town November 2, being allowed no bond. Owing to the intense feeling prevalent Frazier has asked that he be transferred to the Winchester jail. He will be tried at the regular January term of the circuit court.

A negro charged with the murder of a white man at Fleming, in the coal fields of the county several months ago has been arrested in Alabama and returned here.

The construction of the Rockhouse Creek Branch railroad from Blackey, in this county, up Rockhouse to "Caudill's" Branch to ap rich undeveloped coal fields is to be started at once, according to an announcement from there. In the meantime development companies are on the ground starting work as to be in readiness to begin shipping coal as soon as the road is opened for traffic.

The report of State Mine Inspector C. J. Nugwood last week showing that Letcher led in coal production in 1916 is quite gratifying to coal operators. It is believed the output of the present year will show a large increase, and still the coal fields of the county are only partially developed. Within the next six months several important new fields will be opened up in the county which will greatly augment the output. At this time there is unusual activity throughout the mining centers of Letcher county. Around Whitesburg there is much development work under way, opening mines, building towers, etc. The Eureka Coal company is one of the latest to be organized here with $50,000 capital. L. F. Jackson, Henry Jackson, S. B. Baker and W. W. Sargent being the leading incorporators. Some three hundred acres will be developed on Sandlick creek.

Nearby The Kingdom Come Coal Co. composed mostly of West Virginia people are starting development work. They will expend several hundred thousand dollars in the work. At mouth of Sandlick the Eureka Coal company, composed of Williamsburg people are starting shipments. They will have a first class plant.

Building work is still progressing at Whiteo, a new town just below Whitesburg where The Whitesburg Coal company has a first class plant.

At Sergeant The Whitely-Elkhorn Coal company is making shipments, three cars daily, with increases for the very near future. They will construct 70 more mine houses as soon as the work can be done. At Mayking The Mayking Coal corporation near completion of a first class plant, several mines opened and a mile spur line of railroad out from the L. & N. main line.

Lech P. Webb, son of John S. Webb ex-Representative of Thornton, this county, has announced himself a candidate for Sergeant-at-Arms of the next house and will start a spirited campaign. He was a Page at the last regular and extraordinary sessions of the Legislature and is unusually popular, already having many pledges of support.

Mrs. Henry Fannin, aged about 55 years was burned to death at her home near Wrigley, Morgan-co., Thursday of last week. There were no eye witnesses to the tragedy. She was last seen alive by two small children. She was carrying a shovel full of coals of fire from one room to another, and it is supposed that her clothing ignited from the coals. When an older daughter, who was away from home at the time, returned she found the charred and lifeless remains of her mother.—West Liberty Courier.

LETCHER TOWNS

PASS ALLOTMENT

The Y. M. C. A. Work Work Fund was launched in Whitesburg and about $1000 was subscribed. This is considerably over the town's allotment. Postmaster N. M. Webb led the campaign. Other towns in Letcher-co. including Jenkins, McRoberts, Fleming and Seco also passed allotment.

Shooting Affray.

A shooting affray occurred at the home of Zac Collins, three miles west of Paintsville about 5 o'clock Thursday morning, which resulted in two men being shot, one of them being seriously injured.

Wm. Little, candidate in the recent election for constable of this district, and his son, 16 years, had started for a fox hunt. On their way they stopped at Mr. Collins home, who was a renter of Mr. Little, to see him in regard to some rent corn. Mr. Collins was indicted in the Johnson circuit court for a serious offense and evidently thought Mr. Little and his son were there to arrest him. He immediately sprang from behind the bed where he was hidden, when the Littles entered the room he raised with his shot gun shooting Mr. Little through the two front fingers of the right hand and cutting his gun practically in two. They then clinched and during the wrestle Mr. Little's son, 16 years old shot Mr. Collins' right hand off just below the wrist, some of the shots lodging over the right eye. It is said that Mr. Collins injuries are serious.—Post.

All scientists agree that poisonous products in the blood are eliminated by the kidneys and liver. The kidneys act as a kind of filter for these products. When the kidneys are changed or degenerated, by disease or old age, then these poisons are retained in the body. If we wish to prevent old age coming on too soon, or if we want to increase our chances for a long life, Dr. Pierce of the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., says that you should drink plenty of water daily between meals to flush the kidneys. Then procure at your nearest drug store, Anuric. This Anuric drives the uric acid out. Scientific men have learned that in gout, also rheumatism, poisonous uric acid crystals are deposited in or about the joints, in the muscles—where inflammation is set up.

If we wish to keep our kidneys in the best condition a diet of milk and vegetables, with only little meat once a day, is the most suitable. Drink plenty of pure water, take Anuric (double strength) three times a day for a month. Anuric is many times more potent than lithia.

Send Dr. V. M. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., ten cents for trial package of anuric.

KETTLE ISLAND, KY.—I suffered for years with kidney and bladder troubles and took all kinds of medicines, but could not tell that it did me much good. About three years ago I had terrible sick spells which would last two or three days. Kidney secretion was high colored. At last I procured a trial package of Dr. Pierce's Anuric. I then took five or six packages of the tablets and can truthfully say they did me more good than all the other medicines. I feel much improved in every way. I no longer suffer from kidney troubles and I try 'Anuric' and learn for themselves its merits.—A. J. BAILEY.

HELLIER COAL MINES ARE GIVEN INCREASE

Hellier, Ky., Nov. 16.—Employees of the Edgewater Coal company, are receiving over an increased pay roll. Each miner is receiving an increase of wages ranging from $1 to $1.40 per day. The reason for increase of wages is given on account of the high cost of commodities. The Edgewater Coal company operates three large mines here and are subsidiaries of the Kentucky Solvay company.

MONDAY.

The German naval forces encountered by British light war craft in the North Sea Saturday, were forced to seek a haven of safety under the protection of their battle fleets and behind the mine fields of Heligoland. The British warships chased the fleeing enemy as far as was compatible with safety, and when last seen one of the Germans was on fire and another apparently had been damaged by the marksmanship of the pursuers. In addition a German mine sweeper was sunk. The British naval unit suffered slight material damage and there were few casualties among the crews.

SALYER GIVEN $8,000 VERDICT.

An interesting case was decided in Judge Halbert's court which has been before the courts of this section for some time. It was the case of John Salyer versus the C. & O. railway company in which the jury brought in a verdict for eight thousand dollars for the plaintiff.

This case has been tried three times. The first trial resulted in a hung jury, the second is a verdict of eighteen thousand dollars and the third which was concluded yesterday is a verdict of eight thousand dollars. We understand the case will again be taken to the court of appeals.

The verdict yesterday was quite a victory for the attorneys for the plaintiff which are John W. Woods and Arthur T. Bryson.—Ashland Independent.

MESSENGER GIRL CAUSES COMMENT IN FRANKFORT

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 17.—Frankfort has its first messenger girl. She is Miss Nell Spaulding. Her appearance upon the streets caused considerable comment. Miss Spaulding is employed by a local telegraph company that has found itself hard pressed at times to secure messenger boys. For some time a scarcity of messenger boys has been apparent in Frankfort. The reason for this scarcity is attributed to war conditions affording other employment.

Suffered Several Years. PERUNA MADE ME WELL

Its My Standby for a Cold.

Mrs. Elizabeth Reuther, 1002 11th St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "I endorse Peruna as a splendid medicine for catarrh and stomach trouble, from which I suffered several years. I took it for several months, found my health was restored and have felt splendidly ever since. I now take it when I contract a cold, and it soon rids the system of any catarrhal tendencies."

Those who object to liquid medicines can procure Peruna Tablets.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS NEEDED.

At nights Hellier is plunged into total darkness. Even when you look you can see, excepting one electric light on the top of the mill leading on to Edgewater. Strange it is, we have three huge coal corporations with large electric plants and they could furnish lights if they only wanted to. But efforts to secure lights for the town seem altogether futile. Now, then which coal company intends to show their progressiveness by extending their lines into town and furnish the citizens with lights. They'll pay the company for it, and it will pay them a rent sum.
